DEATH CLOSES FAMOUS OPERA STAR'S CAREER

Dame Nellie Melba, Australian Nightingale, Victim of Strange Malady.

ONE OF GREATEST ARTISTS

71-Year-Old Singer Hastened End by Long Trip Near Christmas.

By The Associated Press.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 23—The curtain was rung down today on the life of Dame Nellie Melba one of the purest sopranos grand opera has ever known, after weeks abed with a strange illness which baffled her physicians.

Seventy-one years old, the famous prima donna for several days had fought a losing battle with a skin malady picked up in Egypt and aggravated by a long journey home from Europe before Christmas and the extreme heat of the Australian summer.

Friends believed she hastened her own end with insistence upon spending Christmas in her native Australia, disregarding the advice of her physicians in Europe under whose treatment she was growing better. She became ill again aboard ship and had to enter a hospital at Sydney before proceeding to Melbourne.

Real Name Armstrong

She was happy, however, in spending almost her last days in Melbourne, near where she was born and from which she took her stage name, Melba. Her real name was Nellie Porter Mitchell, changed by her marriage in 1882 to Armstrong.

Known to all the world as the successor to Patti and Jenny Lind, Melba sang last in America at the New York Metropolitan in Faust in 1917-18, and after that was seldom heard in public. She was said to have retained the purity, sweetness and flexibility of her voice almost until the time of her death.

Her most famous roles were as Gilda in Rigoletto, Violetta in La Traviata and Lucia. Although critics were lavish in their praise they sometimes complained of her coldness as an actress

Her life with Captain N. F. Armstrong, whom she married when 19, was not entirely happy Captain Armstrong was son of an Irish baronet.

Shortly after birth of her son George Nesbit Armstrong, she became a rancher near Galveston, Texas, obtained a divorce. She later become reconciled with her son.

Honored by King

She was made a dame of the British empire in 1922 in recognition of her war work and on King George's birthday in 1927 she re-

125 MARION SINGERS IN LIMA EISTEDDFOD

Local Groups To Bid Today for 1932 Meet in Marion.

The Canto and Marion Lecture-Recital club members left here this morning for Lima, carrying letters from the chamber of Commerce, the mayor, the Marion Concert association and several leading citizens, inviting the 1932 Western Ohio eisteddfod to Marion.

Approximately 125 men and women from here went to Lima where they are considered among the strongest music bodies in competition at the eisteddfod. Proceeds of the eisteddfod are to be given to the Red Cross drouth relief fund.

The music festival opened at 2 p. m. The Marion Lecture-Recital club is entered in the last contest of the afternoon program, a ladies' chorus group, to sing "Rain," by Curren. An award of $100 will be given the winner.

Marion singers are entered in all but two of the nine contests to be held tonight. The evening session will open at 7:30 p. m. The prizes in the seven contests in which Marion is entered totals $365.

I. Powell Evans of Atlantic City, N. J., adjudicator in last year's eisteddfod at Ada, returned to Lima today to perform the same office this year.

Karl W. Schell, president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce accompanied the delegation to Lima this morning and will give a short talk at the time when the business of selecting a meeting place for the 1932 eisteddfod is brought up. Marion and Lima singers were expected to carry off the honors of the contests, according to Lima newspapers.

THINGS LIVEN UP IN CHICAGO

Sluggings, Kidnapings Listed as Forerunner of Voting Tuesday.

FORCE OF 70,000 READY

Mustered To Guard Against Serious Trouble; Campaign Finale Today.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—An army of 70,000 today made plans to maintain order in tomorrow's mayoralty and aldermanic primaries, with reports already before them of pre-election violence.

Reports came from the Eighth and Thirtieth wards and told of an attempt on the life of Theodore Clifford, a candidate for alderman of two sluggings and two kidnapings. Clifford reported that two shots had been fired at him from another automobile as he rode in his own car last night. He was slightly hurt by flying glass broken when a bullet shattered the windshield of his machine.

Assault Reported

Bernard Sheehan, 21, and John C. Gray, 30, complained they had been seized and beaten by hoodlums when they handed out campaign literature asking the selection of John O'Shay over John S. Clark. Simultaneously O'Shay headquarters reported that two unnamed men had been kidnaped in an automobile and attacked by their abductors before they were freed on the outskirts of the city.

Credentials were issued the 45,000 poll watchers by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, supervisor of the election, and a force of 15,500 judges and clerks of election will be augmented by 5,000 policemen and a special city and county detail of several thousand men.

As primary day approached there was speculation about Alphonse Capone, the gang leader. Rumors had it that he was in Chicago.

Close Campaign

Meanwhile Mayor William Hale Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle who issued a vagrancy warrant for Capone's arrest, Arthur F. Albert and George K. Schmidt, planned the windup of their fight for the Republican mayoralty nomination None of them called for police guards.

MAN ACCUSED AS GIRL'S MURDER AID

Brother-in-Law Furnished Gun, 15-Year-Old Marietta Prisoner Says.

By The Associated Press

MARIETTA, O., Feb. 23—A new angle in the murder of Mrs. Geraldine Harriman was developed today when authorities announced they had arrested Warren Daugherty, at whose home Freda Daugherty, 15-year-old wife, shot and killed Mrs. Harriman, Saturday.

According to the authorities, Freda told them that Warren Daugherty, her brother-in-law, gave her the gun, showed her how to shoot it and told her to "settle with her (Mrs. Harriman) right there in the kitchen."

The young wife of Ray Daugherty told her story to Prosecutor Everett Folger and Sheriff Gay Thorn. In a previous statement she said she shot the Harriman woman "to drive her away from my husband." The girl is said to have told the authorities that after Warren instructed her in the use of the gun, he and his wife went into a back room so they would not be eye witnesses to the shooting.

Sheriff Thorn said Warren would be held as an accessory, and that his wife, Lucile, would be held as a material witness.

JOLIET GUARDS TIPPED OFF

Convicts Caught in Gunfire; 14 Sought in Arizona Sagebrush.

By The Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 23—Fourteen convicts, including one murderer, who clambered over the state penitentiary wall here yesterday, were being tracked through sagebrush and cactus of surrounding desert today. Fifteen escaped but one was captured. A steel girder, taken from a prison construction job, enabled the convicts to scale the wall and drop 20 feet to the ground outside. The last man was seen by a guard as he sprinted for cover

Warden William Delbridge immediately released bloodhounds and a guard detail.

A baseball game had been in progress in the yard and several hundred prisoners had been taken from their cells to witness it. The warden said the escape plot apparently had been hatched on the spur of the moment.

The captured convict was a Mexican, whose name was not given, serving a life term for murder.

John Quantrell, who slew a cook on the Anvil ranch in Pima county two years ago because he did not like the food, was among those who escaped. Nine were Negroes.

POTTER THREAT TO "SQUEAL" REPORTED

Said To Have Voiced Intention Few Hours Before Murder.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 23—The Cleveland News said today that shortly before William E. Potter, ex-councilman, was slain, he endeavored to borrow money from a man high in Republican party circles, and threatened to "squeal" in the Cleveland playground scandal case which already had sent one councilman to the penitentiary.

The News did not disclose the name of the man to whom Potter allegedly appealed for funds and to whom the threat of "squealing" was given.

It quoted Potter's threat as follows: "If I have to go to the penitentiary because of the land deal, there are others who are going to go along with me."

Potter made his threat at city hall, Feb. 3, the News said, only a few hours before he was killed. He had been scheduled to go to trial a few days later, charged with perjury in an earlier trial in the land fraud case.

The politician to whom Potter appealed was deeply concerned over the ex-councilman's threat, The News said.

From the day Potter's body was found with a bullet hole in his head, many Clevelanders have believed the killing was connected with the fraud case. Police also have considered such a connection possible, but have been inclined to believe it more likely Potter was killed in some kind of a bootleggers' racket.

The grand jury will be asked to indict "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin charged with the murder of Potter, probably this week, Prosecutor Ray T. Miller announced today.

The prosecutor also planned to ask a four-day continuance of Martin's scheduled arraignment today The arraignment was contiuned from last Thursday.

Train Kills 3 Members of Springfield Family

By The Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 23—A railroad crossing accident cost the lives of three members of a family and caused injuries to four others yesterday.

The dead are Mrs. Mona McNamee, 40, her son, Shelby, 20, who was driving the family automobile, and a daughter, Etta, 19.

The automobile was dragged 40 feet down the tracks when struck by the passenger train, which witnesses said was running about 25 miles an hour.

Execution Closes Lurid Page in Crime History

By the Associated Press.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb 23 A lurid page in the crime history of the nation was written by Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague, ere the law made them pay for killing one of its defenders.

Irene Schroeder, former Wheeling, W. Va., waitress, was 20, and mother of a four-year-old boy, when she became gunwoman and killer. Her husband had ceased to live with her. Dague had been a Sunday school teacher a Wheeling automobile salesman, husband of a school teacher, and father of two children.

The woman, stolid and unromantic in appearance, and Dague, pale-eyed and dapper, were bound together in an illicit love and a short career of banditry.

Petty robberies and hold holdups perpetrated by the pair were climaxed by the killing of Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania highway patrol near New Castle, Pa., Dec 27, 1929

KILLINGS PROBED

Police Hold Man Who Says He Shot Two for Robbery Attempt.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 23

Declaring he had killed two men who attempted to rob him, Dayton Thomas, 46, surrendered to police early today and was held as a murder suspect in default of $7,500 bond.

Officers investigating Thomas' story found the bodies of John McNalley, 28, and Joe Carmody, 27, shot to death in their automobiles.

Police said Thomas told them McNalley was driving him home from a late party when Carmody overtook them, forced them to the curb, and then left his vehicle to approach McNalley's car.

Thomas said he fired upon Carmody, who staggered back into his automobile. As Thomas was investigating, officers quote him as saying, McNalley attempted to drive away, whereupon Thomas killed him.

Police said a search of the bodies revealed the two men were unarmed.

ESCAPED INMATES CAUGHT

By The Associated Press.

MANSFIELD, O., Feb. 23—Two Mansfield reformatory inmates who escaped Sunday night were recaptured at Ashland today by police. The prisoners, Carl Ollese, 20, Canton, and Manuel Elkington, 39, of Columbus, who dropped from a first floor window and then scaled a 12-foot fence, offered no resistance.

Our New Era

(Will Rogers Special)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 23—Here is what George Washington missed by not living to his 199th birthday. He would have seen our great political system of "equal rights to all and privileges to none" working so smoothly that seven million are without a chance to earn a living.

He would see 'em handling out rations in peace time that would reminded him of Valley Forge.

In fact, we have reversed the old system. We all get fat in war times and thin during peace.

I bet after seeing us, he would sue us for calling him "Father."

Yours,

Will Rogers

PAYS RESPECT TO WASHINGTON

Capital of Nation Devotes Day To Honoring Father of Country.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 With holidays for all but President Hoover and congress, the capital devoted itself today to celebrating in earnest the one hundred and ninety-ninth birthday of George Washington.

President Hoover remembered the father of his country yesterday by attending divine services in Alexandria. He occupied the pew in Christ church in which George Washington often sat. With him were Mrs. Hoover and their oldest grand child, Peggy Ann.

The broad avenues of the capital were lined with stars and stripes waving in a brisk breeze. Here and there the flags of foreign nations fluttered their tribute from the embassies and legations.

Most of the churches held patriotic services but all lay organizations postponed until today the usual exercises

This morning a military mass at the church of the Immaculate Conception was the principal service, attended by a large body of American Legion members and a guard of honor of marines from the Quantico, Virginia, base. Part of the picturesque ceremony was a presentation of massed colors. In the afternoon Memorial Continental hall was the chosen scene of a program sponsored by the daughters, sons and children of the American revolution.

While devoting most of the day to work, congress set its meeting hour early to permit the annual exercises in the house. Departing from the pattern of accepted custom, reading of Washington's farewell address was dispensed with, and an address by Representative Beck of Pennsylvania, substituted.

All government departments remained closed for the day and the non-governmental population joined in the holiday through widespread half-day closing of business houses.

RITES TUESDAY

Widow of Admiral Dewey To Rest in Washington Cathedral.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — The body of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, widow of Admiral George Dewey, Spanish-American war hero, will be placed beside that of her husband in a crypt at Washington cathedral. The admiral's body was first placed in a tomb at Arlington national cemetery but later the widow permitted its removal to the cathedral crypt.

Brief services will be held tomorrow morning at the home in which she and the admiral lived by the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington. Then the body will be taken to the cathedral where another service will be held.

Mrs. Dewey was 80 and died Saturday of pneumonia.

PENALTY PAID BY PAIR FOR CRIME CAREER

Irene, Pale but Unflinching, Precedes Dague to Death Chair.

NO FINAL WORDS SPOKEN

Ministers Sing Hymns at Death House Door as Execution Prelude.

By The Associated Press.

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 23—Calm and collected, Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague went to their deaths in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary today just after break of dawn.

The state claimed of them the supreme price for the killing of a guardian of its highways.

The woman went to the chair first, at 7 a. m. One contact was made and she was pronounced dead at 7:05. Dague was placed in the chair at 7:08 and five minutes later was dead.

Mrs. Schroeder's face was pale, almost ghastly, except for a slight bit of rouge on either cheek, as she was brought into the death chamber. Her eyes were open until she was seated in the big chair, then she closed them and kept them closed until the death hood was placed over her head.

Dague's Step Firm

Dague came in with steady stride and as he sat down in the chair, gazed left and right at the witnesses. Then the hood was adjusted and the electric contact was made while the chaplain still was offering up a prayer for the condemned.

Neither slayer spoke, nor was any word spoken to them.

The woman who once wielded a gun with her gunman lover in merciless bloodshed was as unflinching at her doom as ever she had been during the days of banditry and subsequent flight and fight for life.

"Iron Irene," they termed her at her trial. "Iron Irene" she was until the end. The spirit that bore her up when the jury in the Lawrence county courts pronounced death as her sentence, held with her as she walked into the grim chamber of death here and surrendered her life for the life of Corporal Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol, on Dec. 27, 1929

She was clad in a gray, artificial silk dress, loose and poorly fitting. She wore beige stockings and black slippers. The hair was clipped away from the back of her head at a spot where an electrode was attached.

Three in Escort

With a guard holding either arm and a matron preceding her, the woman walked into the death chamber, apparently not needing the slight support the guards gave her. She walked into the brighter circle of light cast by a huge flood lamp over the chair and in the state's grim instrument of death the guards placed her and quickly fastened the straps binding her to it. The matron stepped aside to a wall of the chamber.

As she sat, the woman's fingers trembled just a little. The only human voice in the cold, gray chamber was that of the chaplain offering up a prayer for the doomed woman.

The straps and death hood were adjusted, the voice of the chaplain whispered on, and even before he had completed his words the con-

PATROL AREA NEAR UNLEASHED GASSER

Experts Will Attempt To Check Huge Flow of Pennsylvania Well.

By International News Service.

TIOGA, Pa., Feb. 23—Guards patrolled the area around the unleashed Meeker natural gas well here today as the shaft continued to shoot out an estimated 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, while expert well "cappers" and apparatus for harnessing the flow were en route here from Oklahoma.

The well-experts, skilled in the Halliburton process of controlling gas flow, were expected to arrive here tonight with special equipment to be used in cutting down the flow of free gas, and work was expected to be started Tuesday morning.

Said to be the largest natural gas well ever brought in east of the Mississippi, the new Meeker well "blew in" late last Friday, unexpectedly sending 14 workmen scurrying for their lives as the gas rolled out in thick clouds.

Officials of the Penn United company, developers of the well, said the unharnessed well has caused a loss of $108,000 a day, with the flow increasing to between 90,000,000 and 100,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours.

ST. MARY BEATEN BY COLUMBUS QUINTET

HOLY FAMILY TRAILS 3 PERIODS; RALLIES LATE TO WIN, 16-10

Art O'Keefe Leads Marion Team's Scoring with Pair of Buckets.

THE St. Mary basketball team continued its slump Saturday night, allowing the Holy Family five to take a 16 to 10 decision on the Star gym court. It was the second time of the season the Columbus five has defeated the Marion Irish. The game Saturday was much harder fought than the one previously played between the two parochial teams.

St. Mary started the game out in snappy style, holding the Capital city five to three points for the first frame and scoring four for themselves. In the second frame Holy Family got its offense functioning in better style and the locals trailed at the half, 8 to 5.

St. Mary put on a fierce attack in the third period that netted them four points while the Columbus team could not get a single marker. The score at the third period was 9-8 for St. Mary.

Columbus rallied in the final period, holding St. Mary to one free throw and collecting eight points to bring the final count to 16-10 for Columbus.

Art O'Keefe led the scoring for the St. Mary team with four points. Gibbons, guard of Columbus led his team in points with three buckets and two free throws.

The Academy Aces and Irish Rockets, both of them composed of St. Mary players put on a preliminary game, the Aces winning, 7 to 3.

FIELD NOT READY

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 23—Twenty men were working on Plant field here today to get in shape for the spring training schedule of the Cincinnati Reds. When 10 of the battery men reported they found the field had been somewhat torn up by a circus, but it was expected to be in shape by the first of next week when the remainder of the squad reports. Pitchers Lucas, Rixey and Streleckl, along with catcher Styles, were the only absent batterymen today.

CINCINNATI FIVE WINS OVERTIME GAME WITH LAST MINUTE SCORE

Roush, Cram, Osterholt Play Brilliantly for Local Y. M. C. A. Quintet.

THE Cincinnati Wildcats and the Shovel Y-Indus basketball teams played a thrilling overtime battle Saturday night on the Steam Shovel gym court, the Wildcat aggregation finally emerging victorious over the Marion team by a single point. The score was 38 to 37. It was the second game of the year which the two teams had played, the Cincinnatians winning both of them by a single point margin.

Opening the game with a lightning offense the Cincinnati team jumped into a commanding lead before the first period was completed. Scott and McDol, center and forward of the Wildcat quintet led the attack that put the visitors in the lead 10-4 at the end of the first frame. The Y-Indus defense was unable to stop the scoring antics of the McDol and Scott combination. The shooting accuracy of the locals was also below par.

Wildcats Hold Lead

The Wildcats retained their advantage during the second quarter, leading the game at the half standing 25 to 17.

Cincinnati continued to demonstrate its superiority over the Y-Indus scoring machine during the greater part of the third period. Holding a substantial margin the greater part of the quarter, Chuck Osterholt, second string center replaced Lockwood at the pivot post late in the third frame and his presence there served to provide the scoring punch which had been lacking so far in the Y-Indus offense. The Shovel outfit turned loose a rally that swept Cincinnati off its feet and jumped into a three point lead with two minutes remaining for play. Action was fast and furious during the entire last frame.

The Wildcats connected for another bucket with only a minute to play but the Y-Indus lead was apparently safe as the locals froze the ball in back court. With exactly three seconds remaining for play Osterholt committed a personal foul on Scott who promptly dropped through the point to tie the count.

Osterholt Scores

Osterholt scored a bucket at the start of the overtime period to again put his team in the lead while the best the Cincinnatians could get in the first four minutes was a single free throw.

Scott, Wildcats' center, looped the fatal bucket through for Cincinnati in the overtime game with seven seconds to play.

Roush, Cram and Osterholt were the shining lights for the Y-Indus five. Roush turned in a beautiful performance on the floor and also led in scoring with 14 points. Cram, although not scoring, was a bulwark of strength for his team. Vic Gillis dumped in 13 markers to brings his season's total to nearly 400 points.

McCarthy Gets Good News of Yankee Team

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 23—The New York Yankees and good news for manager Joe McCarthy arrived here at the same time. Coach JiJmmy Burke visited George Pipgras at Hot Springs on his way down and reported the big pitcher is rapidly recovering from his appendicitis operation while the home office in New York sent word that Lyn Lary, shortstop, had signed his contract, leaving Sam Byrd as the only Yankee holdout.

Defends Title Tonight

The king of light heavyweight wrestlers, Joe Banaski, is the featured performer on tonight's mat card at the Steam Shovel gym. He will meet "Dude" Chick in the main go titular match.

Banaski is recognized as champion by the Mid-West Wrestling association. He was named the head man of the division and awarded the belt valued at $5,000.

The Mid-West group is attempting to clean up much of the doubt which surrounds each division. At the present any number of men are claiming the honor of being the real champion.

Banaski has wrestled in Marion a number of times and has always been popular with fans. Tonight will be his first appearance here since he took over the crown of his division.

Pohler Leads Presbies to Win Over United Brethren

Despite the fact that three of the first string Presbyterian team was not in the lineup the United Brethren cage five was unable to check the scoring machine of the Presbies Saturday night and the latter maintained their undefeated record, beating the U. B. quintet 27 to 16. The victory clinched the Y-Church league title for the Presbyterians although they have a single game remaining on their schedule.

Epworth M. E. and Waldo Lutherans moved up a notch into a tie for second place with Christian No. 1 by winning over Christian No. 2 and St. Mary. Epworth was victor by a 31 to 16 count while Waldo won 23 to 17.

St. Mary, although losing its tenth straight game threw considerable anxiety into the ranks of the Waldo quintet before the game was completed. The Irish took the lead at the start of the game and led during the first three periods. The score at the three quarter mark was 15-14. In the last frame Waldo spurted and jumped into the lead to win the game.

Epworth had little difficulty in winning from Christian No. 2. The Methodists took the lead at the start and never were behind.

Milt Pohler led the Presbies to victory over the United Brethren. Pohler collected 13 points, just three less than the total score of the opponents. Bob Tuttle, usual high scorer for the U. B. was held to a lone field goal in the game by Nick Bader.

PENNANT BUG WORKING

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 23—The Brooklyn Robins are badly bitten with the pennant bug. Although they were not slated to start work for another week, all four of Wilbert Robinson's regular infield of Del Bissonette, Fresco Thompson, Glenn Wright and Wally Gilbert, are in camp and ready to go to work with the batterymen.

GRAPPLING CROWN AT STAKE TONIGHT AS BANASKI-CHICK MEET

Blonde Texan Challenging for Lightweight Mat Title Held by Chicagoan.

THE CARDS

Main Go—Joe Banaski, light heavyweight champion, vs. "Dude" Chick, challenger.

Semi-Final—Joe Campbell of Buffalo vs. Dug Marcell of Hoboken.

Preliminary—Tom Temple of Marion vs. Bill Hassan of Columbus.

Preliminary—Roy Rhinehart of Mt. Gilead vs. Dick Griffin of Marion.

BY KARL R. McELROY

MARION'S biggest wrestling card of the season tonight at the Steam Shovel gym is expected to draw more than 1,000 fans when Joe Banaski, the light heavyweight champion of the Mid-West Wrestling association, defends his title in a two-out-of-three fall battle with "Dude" Chick, the terrible Texan.

The main go will have all the elements of an exciting bout. With the championship at stake, the tactics of the two principals are such as to make every moment an interesting one from the spectators' viewpoint.

Rough and Ready

Chick is a rough-and-ready wrestler whose biggest difficulty has been in keeping on good terms with the referee. In his last 65 starts he has been disqualified 28 times for unnecessary roughness. It is quite unlikely that he will get so rough tonight. He will use every bit of skill at his command to capture the championship.

Little need be said about Banaski. His appearance here last season before he became champion won him a countless number of followers in the wrestling fraternity. His work is clean and fast and he has shown a great deal of improvement since his climb to the top of the ladder.

Weigh in at 3 p. m.

Chick is scheduled ot weigh in before the Marion boxing commission at 3 p. m. He has completed a week of intensive training under Coach Beers of Purdue university where he has been trying to dislodge a few pounds of surplus flesh. He is scheduled to weigh 175 pounds this afternoon and will probably enter the ring tonight somewhat above this weight.

Joe Campbell, the Buffalo flash who is considered a coming lad in the light heavy division, will meet Dug Marcell of Hoboken. Marcell is a new man in this section of the country and has been going quite hot. He is speedy on the mat and is expected to give Campbell plenty of action.

Two preliminary matches round out the card. Roy Rhinehart of Mt. Gilead will meet Dick Griffin of Marion and another Marion lad, Tom Temple, will wrestle Bill Hassan of Columbus.

The first bout will get under way at 8:30. General admission tickets will go on sale at the Shovel gym at 6:30.

2 COUNTY GAMES SET FOR TONIGHT

Waldo and Martel boys' basketball teams will clash tonight on the court at CLARIDON school in the first of a pair of games to determine the runner-up position in the East half of the Marion county basketball league. Caledonia, now tied with Martel and Waldo for second place, will meet the winner of tonight's game on Wednesday.

In the West half of the league the Morral and Pleasant girls' teams will play tonight as a preliminary to the Waldo-Martel boys' game. Prospect, the third co-holder of first place in the girls' division, will meet the winner of tonight's girls' game on Wednesday.

The Wednesday games will be played either on the Pleasant township school court or at Claridon. The exact place will be listed in the Tuesday edition of The Star.

MARION BOWLERS GO INTO SECOND PLACE

Faultless Cleaners Roll 1991 in Ohio State Tournament in Columbus.

The Faultless Cleaners' five man bowling team furnished the major quota of excitement over the week-end in the Ohio State bowling tournament being conducted in Columbus by spilling the maples for a total of 2,991 pins. The score sent the Marion team into second place in the standings of the tournament.

The local team smashed the pins for a 1036 score in the first game and then dropped to 950 in the second start. In the night cap game the Cleaners spilled a total of 1005.

L. Schuler, rolling second for the Marion five, led the assault on the maples, getting two high scores of 249 and 196. He slipped in the final game, getting only 141 pins.

Burts Foundry of Toledo is leading the tournament with 3010 pins.

Although four of the six coaches were players last season, the American Hockey league is without a single player-each this year.

WALKER READY FOR HEAVYWEIGHT SETTO WITH JOHNNY RISKO

Toy Bulldog Continues Efforts for Shot at Championship; Fight in Miami.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 — Mickey Walker will renew his heavyweight campaign in a ten round match tomorrow night with the durable Johnny Risko, of Cleveland.

The fight is the first of a double-barreled fistic carnival under the palms this winter in the Miami arena built by the Madison Square Garden Corporation, which withdrew from the setting this year after promoting two annual festivals of sock.

"Pa" Stribling is directing the Walker - Risko show and featuring it with three-round exhibitions by his son, Young Stribling and Max Schmeling, who are matched to fight this June for the world's heavyweight title somewhere in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago or Jersey City.

On March 5, Primo Carnera, the ambling alp from Italy, is booked to defy the handicap of a cracked rib and take on his erstwhile Boston conqueror, Jimmy Maloney, in a 10-round contest.

"Pa" Stribling will be quite happy if his show tomorrow night draws upwards of $50,000, at prices ranging from $2 up to $5.

The Striblings have taken "the play" away from all fistic rivals, even though W. L. is just here for exhibition purposes. Newspaper advertisements depicts the pride of Georgia selecting everything from cravats to radios. His airplane exploits have captured the southern fancy, and he is in demand for personal appearances at high schools as well as night clubs.

Walker, no longer concerned with the defense of his middleweight title, has groomed himself for a slugfest with Risko, although "Good-time Mickey" will be under the handicap of conceding Johnny at least 25 and possibly 30 pounds.

Ohio College Basketball in Last Stand This Week

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Collegiate basketball in Ohio will make its last stand this week with winners in two of the three groups undeterminable until the final gun.

At present time Ohio university leads the Buckeye Association, Defiance and Bowling Green tied for first place in the Northwest group and Mount Union sailing merrily along in the Ohio conference.

Of the three Mount Union seems to be the only secure one. The Mounts have chalked up an even dozen victories without tasting defeat. Bowling Green and Defiance close the season Thursday night at Defiance in a game that will decide the undisputed leader of the group.

The battle of the state this week apparently will take place Friday night at Granville when Ohio university and Denison meet. A victory will give Ohio the championship.

However, if Ohio is tripped, a three way tie will result, Denison, Wesleyan and Ohio ending the season with five victories and three losses each.

Denison tied the league up last Wednesday by downing Wesleyan. This was the third loss for Coach Ray Dettick's Bishops, a total of six points keeping him from an undefeated season. Wesleyan lost its first game to Miami by one point, its second to Ohio by two and its third to Denison by three.

Mount Union is experiencing little trouble from its Ohio conference competition, chalking up its eleventh and twelfth games last week. The Mounts take on Case and Oberlin this week and are expected to make its total 14 straight.

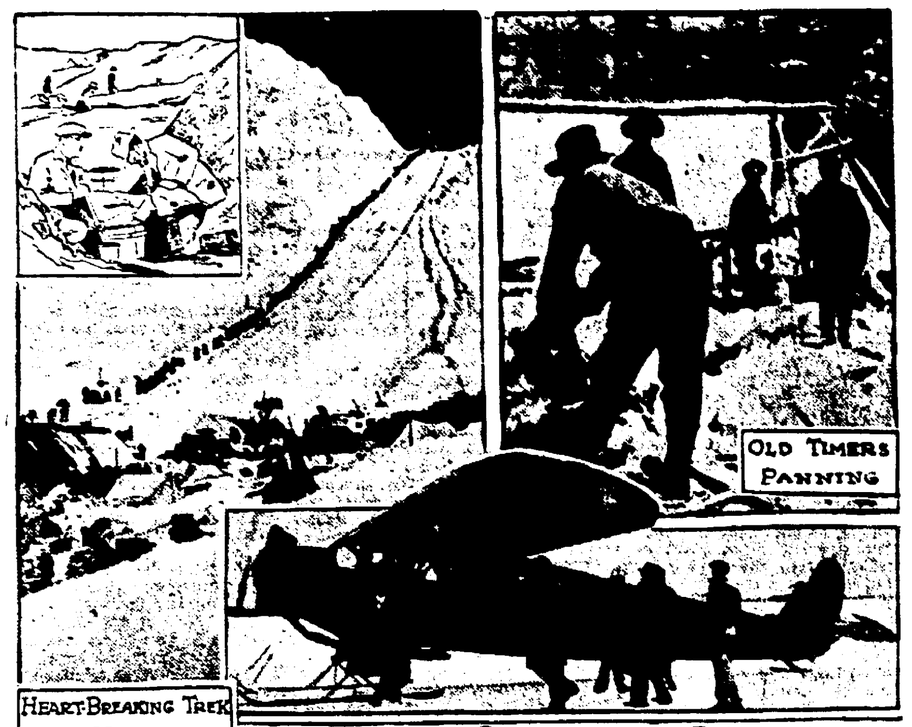
THOUSANDS FACE GOLD RUSH PERILS



By International News Service.

CALGARY, Alta., Canada—An epidemic of goldfever, reminiscent of the hectic days of the Klondike and the big trail of the forty-niners, has broken out in Calgary as a result of a reported gold strike in the Livingstone river valley. Heedless of the manifold perils attending a journey into the wilderness in the dead of winter, hundreds of men are headed in the direction of the new El Dorado, lured on by the gleam of the yellow metal that has a more potent influence on human behavior than anything else that the world holds.

The rush started when a prospector brought back a three-ounce piece of quartz from the Livingstone valley, and on having it assayed found that it contained traces of gold. The news leaked out and immediately the exodus was on. Men with good jobs quit them and pulled out for the gold-bearing district. Men without jobs were inoculated with the hope brought on by desperation and, notwithstanding, trekked into the frozen wilds on the mad scramble to get there first.

BEHIND the gold-seekers, moves a patrol of mounted provincial police to render help to those unfortunates who fall by the wayside, a prey to cold, hunger and the fierce blizzards of the north.

It is just a repetition of the disastrous Klondike rush in which thousands started out with hope and lust for gold and died by the score in the frozen wastes of Alaska.

Modern prospecting is a vastly different business than it was in those days. Instead of the dog-team the up-to-date gold seeker uses an airplane and covers more territory in a few hours than he could do in months, if at all, with dogs. The picture above shows a Fairchild prospecting plane, fitted with skis instead of customary landing gear to facilitate landing and taking off on snow or ice. Planes of this type are frequently used by the modern prospector.

SCIENCE, too, has taken a lot of the romance out of gold-mining. The old-timer went out with his pick and wash pan and tried spot after spot at random, washing the soil in search of color. And when he found a place that showed traces of the precious metal, he dug and washed every shovelful of soil by hand.

But he is in most cases a qualified geologist, scientifically trained and equipped with the latest "divining" instruments, knows just where to start his search—having made a careful study of the contours and geological peculiarities of the country where he is prospecting.

HIS instruments tell him when he crosses an auriferous vein and then it is just a matter of taking samples of quartz and if the assay shows it to be of value his work is done. He doesn't do any digging. No sir. He just finds the stuff mixed with rock, so many ounces to the ton, stakes his claim, sells out to one of the big mining companies and lets them do the worrying about extracting the gold and packing it back to civilization.

A background in the present rush at Calgary is furnished by the legend of the lost Leman mine. The story goes that a prospector, named Leman, struck it rich in the Livingstone country in 1870. He kept the location of his mine secret and went to Idaho to bring back his family, but he and his family perished on the way and the mine has never since been found.

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

The retail grocery market was unusually inactive this morning. Prices of all foods remained at Saturday levels, even butter and eggs going over the week-end unchanged.

Grocers are still offering hothouse and Florida grown tomatoes. The hothouse varieties come from around Cleveland and retail at 35 cents a pound. They have little demand here with grocers offering outdoor grown Florida tomatoes at 25 cents a pound.

A carload of oranges and grapefruit in the bulk is being consumed here each week, grocers say.

DISMISSED ATTORNEY DENOUNCES ENEMIES

William B. Bartels Charges Sinister Motives Responsible for Ouster.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—William B. Bartels, formerly of Athens, who was discharged Saturday as assistant U. S. district attorney in charge of the Columbus office, issued a statement today bitterly denouncing "the motives of his enemies" in bringing about his dismissal.

Bartels was ousted as the climax of a dispute with his immediate superior, Haveth E. Mau, federal district attorney with headquarters in Cincinnati.

"Certain sinister interests who would rather see law, order and decency fail than have their own diabolical schemes fail," were attacked in the statement.

Bartels blames three things in particular for his dismissal:

1. His activity on behalf of Cecil J. Randall who was elected judge of the common pleas court here last fall. 2. A desire to get out of his hands the prosecution of Harry C. Arnold, chairman of the Franklin county Republican executive committee and a member of the board of elections, on liquor law charges. 3. The same desire with respect to the prosecution of a Newark police officer, also charged with violation of the liquor laws.

Bartels repeated other charges against Mau and asserted that if the U. S. attorney general will act upon information available to him "Mr. Mau will either resign or be dismissed from the service."

GIVEN FAREWELL

About 30 friends and neighbors were guests at a farewell party recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest A. Moore of near Richwood. The time was spent socially and with euchre. An oyster supper was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will move soon to the Frank Dilleaver farm.

WINCHESTER, Conn. — Within 12 hours of the time that the home of George Beach was destroyed by fire with all its contents, the local grange swung to action to aid him. Twenty men and six teams assembled and started in the woods here to cut logs and saw out timbers to build him a new homestead. Then fifty members of the Grange, who the night before gave fifty dollars to the Red Cross, were able to raise ten dollars to help Mr. Beach.

HARTFORD, Conn.—The Connecticut state library has published the first study ever undertaken of the glacial features of the state as a whole. Prof. Richard Foster Flint, of Yale, wrote the book in which he gives some idea of the life in Connecticut when the great ancient ice cap was melting.

GAS FUMES EXPLODE, HOUSE IS ROCKED

Leaking Burner on Gasoline Stove Believed Cause of Blast.

Mrs. Jeff Williams of Ruth avenue narrowly escaped possible death from an explosion which rocked the Williams residence shortly before 5 p. m. Saturday. The explosion occurred a few seconds after she left the kitchen to kill a chicken for Sunday dinner.

A leaking connection on a gasoline stove is believed to have filled the kitchen with gas which was ignited by a burning jet on the stove.

Plastering in several rooms was shaken from the walls and many windows were broken. Damage from the explosion was estimated by Fire Chief T. J. McFarland at $700.

For a few moments, the house was threatened with fire, which followed the explosion. Neighbors assisted in controlling the fire until company No. 1 of the fire department arrived.

Earlier Saturday afternoon company No. 3 was called to the J. S. Chambers residence at 456 Ballentine avenue where a chimney burned out. No damage was done.

ARREST WOMAN

Dry Agents Raid Home; Not Guilty Plea Entered.

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 23 — Mrs. Jane Irons was arrested by state prohibition officers following a raid on her home Saturday. The agents say that seven barrels of rye mash were found and confiscated.

Mrs. Irons pleaded not guilty to charges of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquor when arraigned before Judge Ethel Elder, Saturday afternoon. She will be tried before Judge Elder Wednesday.

TRAVELERS PLAN DINNER

Plans were made for a dinner in the near future at the meeting of the United Commercial Travelers Saturday night in the Elks clubrooms. Arrangements for the affair are in charge of a committee composed of Stanley Strayer, Virgil Shaw and Ed. Glimpse. One application was received. The next meeting will be March 21.

SPEAKER TELLS OF COMMUNISM

Cleveland Man Advocates Soviet Plan for U. S. in Talk Here.

Pointing to Communism as the only solution for wage cuts and unemployment, C. B. Cowan of Cleveland, district organizer of the American Council of Unemployed, openly advocated bolshevism and a communistic form of government for United States in a talk before a mass meeting of more than 300 Marion persons in the Central labor union hall yesterday afternoon.

Russia is the only country in the world today that is not suffering from present business and economic conditions, Cowan asserted. "This," he said, "is because everything there belongs to the laboring people with no capital class to govern."

Says He Is Bolshevik

Early in his talk, Cowan said he was a member of the Communist party.

The climax of his talk came when he said he was proud to be fighting to set up such a government as Communism in this country.

"I am a bolshevik of the American type. We have a long hard fight ahead of us to set up a government of this kind in this country," he said. "We never quit," he continued. "There are thousands more like myself. Where one drops out 10 others take up the job."

After opening his talk with a charge that members of the Marion chamber of commerce, the American Legion and other local organizations had met Saturday night in an effort to prevent his appearance here yesterday afternoon, Cowan launched into a recitation of the miseries he said were being suffered by the laboring class of the unemployed.

He flayed local relief agencies, charging they are not caring for the local situation.

After declaring Russia is the only country in the world not suffering from economic ills today, he painted a vivid picture of the five-year Soviet plan, which he said he hoped to see established here. Women in Russia, he said, get equal pay with men and are not forced to resort to thievery to be self-supporting. There are no bosses nor unemployment periods in Russia, he said.

Tells Men to Helps Selves

Efforts will be made to strengthen the Marion Council of Unemployed to a force sufficient to demand and obtain immediate relief, he said. He told of marching in parades in larger cities where unemployed gatherings helped themselves to food in groceries and restaurants.

It is Cowan's hope to have a sufficiently large organizaation to "demand" of council an employment insurance measure providing $8 a week for each unemployed person and an additional $2 for each dependant until such time as the American Council of Unemployed can "force through" a federal relief measure paying $15 a week to each unemployed man and $3 a week for each dependent, he said.

Among the measures proposed by Cowan to obtain funds for this relief are the reduction of salaries of city officials to a maximum of $2,000 a year; postponement of the payment of sinking fund obligations; using the available money for relief; a demand that the Community fund money given the Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. be withdrawn from these agencies and applied to relief.

No demonstrations of any nature are planned until the local council of unemployed is better organized and in greater numbers, Cowan said after the talk.

Predicts War

Predicting a war in the near future as a result of what he claimed was a tendency of government officials to fight for the interests of capital, Cowan forecast war between England and United States, with England fight for the Shell oil interests and United States fighting for the rights of the Standard Oil Co.

"If they try to make us fight in a war like that or like the last war we'll take the guns and ammunition, turn on the capitalists who have started the war and set up a government of the working class," Cowan said.

Cowan said he had served sentences in several workhouses and jails, claiming most of these followed Communistic demonstrations.

Statements threatening violent demonstrations and seizure of food if relief was not provided met with applause and a stamping of feet.

TO BUY FLAGS

Money realized from a cafeteria supper served Friday night at the American Legion dugout, by Betsy Ross Auxiliary No. 14, U. S. W. V., will be used to purchase flags for Marion schools. Arrangements were made to attend the Northwestern Booster meeting of the United Spanish War Veterans March 8 at Tiffin. A meeting of the auxiliary will be held March 27.

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

BY HALLIE HOUCK

THE MOST advertised and ballyhooed picture of the year, "Cimarron" opens at the Palace Tuesday. A closing date has not been set. "Mighty, terrific, supreme, colossal, unmatched creations, unlocked fury, gigantic" and any other adjectives that press agents and critics have in store, all have been applied to "Cimarron."

Edna Ferber who wrote the novel that leaped to fame overnight, has explained that the word "Cimarron" means "wild, bad, unruly." So great is this picture of the settling and growth of Oklahoma, that the Oklahoma Congressional delegation of Congress, under the partonage of Secretary of War and Mrs Patrie Hurley and Secretary of the Interior and Mrs Wilbur, gave an invitation premier of the picture Jan. 22 in Washington, D. C.

Richard Dix is given the outstanding role of his career as Yancey Cravat, the hero of the novel and Irene Dunne was selected for the dramatic role of Sabra.

So many have read the novel that everyone must be familiar with the characters of the epic story of Oklahoma. Over 5,000 colorful characters appear in the film, including an entire Indian tribe.

RICHARD DIX

The story of "Cimarron" was fascinating from the opening chapter to the final pages. Every opening of country when the United States was growing, brought strange and interesting characters with it. The book abounded with characters who added color and vibration to the story, and made even more glamorous the powerful story of Yancey and Sabra.

The Palace is showing an invitation preview of the picture Monday at 11:30 p. m.

DOROTHY PETERSON HAS LEADING ROLE IN "MOTHERS CRY."

Picture Gives Heartbreaking of Woman Whose Life Is Tragedy.

DOROTHY PETERSON'S portrayal of Mary Williams the mother, in "Mothers Cry," at the Ohio tonight, through Wednesday, is the outstanding acting of the picture. She gives a vivid, heart-throbbing portrayal of the mother whose life is a tragedy.

The four children, Helen Chandler, David Manners, Edward Woods and Evelyn Knapp each is temperamentally the opposite of the others, and each is a separate problem for the mother to cope with. Danny is Edward Woods, her ganster son who finally becomes deeply involved with the police after bringing nothing but heartaches into her life. Helen Chandler is the daughter who, because she is serious and a wealthy man is only philandering, comes home to hide her shame. David Manners is her son Artie the only one who makes a name for himself in business. He is a prominent New York architect. Evelyn Knapp is her other daughter, home-loving and sweet.

The roles of the four children are well drawn. Mary Williams' husband, Pat O'Malley, is killed when Danny is 12 and it is up to her to work and keep her little family together. The story is well told from the time the children begin to grow up and branch out into the roads they will take for life. The story is sad, but it presents a problem over which many mothers have cried -children who are no more like herself or her husband than black is like white. It is a human-interest picture, well acted and directed.

INDIAN REVUE IN PALACE VAUDEVILLE

Joe Roberts and his banjo, without gorgeous costumes and a great display, is the knock-out number on the Palace theater vaudeville program presented tonight for the last times. You'll hear many things from a banjo that you never guessed it possessed, when you hear this artist strum classical numbers, humorous sketches and jazz.

Trout and Heff, blackface comedians don't bring down the house with applause. The striking number on the bill is the Clifford Wayne Indian revue of four men and two women from the Black Hills of South Dakota. Full-blooded Sioux Indians. There's a kick in seeing these "first people of America," in a jazz-mad dance. The trappings of the company are colorful and the dancing is excellent.

Charlie Murray and George Sidney have a good time in "Caught Cheating" also on for the last times tonight. It's their usual comedy of falling for the good looking girls and being caught up by friend wife in time to live happily ever after. This time they escape death at the guns of a mob of gangsters. Charlie is a bold, bad pirate and George is Cassanova at a costume ball where the trouble is climaxed.

"THE PAINTED DESERT" PLAYS AT MARION

Melodrama the stuff the people love, makes "The Painted Desert" at the Marion tonight and Tuesday, very good entertainment. Bill Boyd, with his splendid physique, is the he-man star in the picture, and Helen Twelvetrees, not quite the accepted idea of a girl of the Golden West, is the girl. William Farnum has an important role linked with J. Farrell MacDonald.

These two pioneers, come upon a deserted covered wagon. The man and woman are dead and they take the infant boy to raise. As the story progresses, the two become deadly enemies. MacDonald has a daughter, Helen Twelvetrees, who meets Bill Boyd, the foundling, and of course, the two fall in love. The finding of ore brings the two enemies to friendly terms and interest picks up when a jealous lover enters the scene.

OBITUARY

Irma Allegra Young Meredith was born August 1, 1895, at her father's ancestral home two and one-half miles south of Marion. Her parents are Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Olin Young, who are living at their residence, 330 Willow street.

Mrs. Meredith's early education was obtained in the country schools near her home, and in the Marion High school, from which she was graduated in 1913. Later she attended Ohio Wesleyan university, being graduated with the highest honors and with Phi Beta Kappa distinction. She then taught English one year in the high school at Albion, Mich. On July 15, 1920, she was married to John Floyd Meredith, who survives with their children, Virginia Ruth, aged seven, and Donald Lloyd, aged five.

Besides her parents, Mrs. Meredith leaves two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Istaline V. Archer, of New Bremen, Ohio, Miss Eula M. Young, of 330 Willow street, teacher in the high school at Elyria and Merle W. Young, residing on the old homestead south of Marion.

Mrs. Meredith was a member of Epworth M. E. church since childhood, and was a teacher in the kindergarten before her illness. She was converted during her course at Ohio Wesleyan and was ever interested in religious work.

Early in January, 1930, Mrs. Meredith developed influenza which resulted in a critical illness of pleuro-pneumonia, by which her heart was permanently weakened. During the long months of invalidism she was infinitely patient and always had a smile for her friends, of whom she had a host. Early in the morning of Wednesday, February 18, she passed away quietly in her sleep. On Friday afternoon funeral services were conducted at the Epworth M. E. church, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Turley, officiating. Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence, a cousin of the deceased, presided at the organ, and Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, and Mrs. E. N. Hale sang "Face to Face" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Six cousins served as pallbearers: Preston Lawrence, Marion Lawrence, Paul Lawrence, Dale Lawrence, Lorin Lawrence, and Ferdinand Lawrence. Her body was laid to rest in the beautiful Marion cemetery.

Her many friends and relatives will feel an infinite loss. She always lived the text which was her childhood favorite. "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

"The blessing of her quiet life
Fell on us like the dew,
And good thoughts, where her footsteps passed,
Like fairy blossoms grew.
"Sweet promptings unto kindest deeds
Were in her very look;
We read her face, as one who reads
A true and holy book.
"The measure of a blessed hymn
To which our hearts could move;
The breathing of an inward psalm,
A canticle of love.
"There seems a shadow on the day,
Her smile no longer cheers;
A dimness on the stars of night,
Like eyes that look thro' tears.
"Alone unto our Father's will
One thought hath reconciled;
That He, whose love exceedeth ours,
Hath taken home His child.
"Fold her, O Father, in thine arms,
And let her henceforth be
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and Thee."

Two Face Non-Support Charges in Court Here

Hearing for Owen Messenger, charged with non support of four children, was set for Wednesday morning by Judge William R. Martin in municipal court this morning. He was released on his own recognizance after voluntarily appearing in court to answer the charge.

The action was brought by Elva Messenger who charges he has not provided for his four minor children since Nov. 1, 1930.

Orville J. Haldeman, 38, of 368 Girard avenue, is awaiting arraignment in municipal court on a non-support charge following his arrest on the charge by police. The action brought by J. H. Eymon, attorney for the humane society, charges he has not provided for two minor children since Jan. 1, 1931.

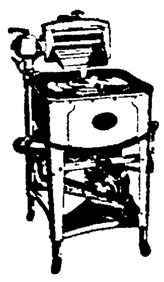
BACK-BREAKING LABOR...

FOR Two Cents AN HOUR!

DO you spend five or six hours every Monday bent over a steaming wash tub . . . rubbing sodden clothes across a washboard...struggling with soggy sheets . . . plunging your arms into nearly-boiling, soapy water? Cooking and cleaning as usual, of course. It's a heartbreaking round of toil.

If you do, you deserve all the credit in the world for your courage. But is it worth the sacrifice? You're really working for five cents an hour.



That's all it costs to let electricity do the job for you. An Electric Washer will spare you the aching back and swollen hands. It will keep you out of the dark basement, and give you time for your other tasks... and a little enjoyment, too.

Just throw the wash in an Electric Washer and snap the switch. That gentle rinsing motion will do the whole week's wash in a few hours...and turn it out without a spot. It's an investment in speed, efficiency ...and health.

Old Brick House, Home of Fiery Civil War Editor, Torn Down Here

Hodder House, Just North of Railroad on State Street, Razed.

ONE of Marion's oldest and, in its day, one of the most elaborate dwellings is being torn down to make way for the seemingly inevitable trend of the times. A filling station probably will be built on the lot of the old house, located at 207 North State street, has occupied since pre-Civil war days.

The old building is known to many Marionites as the Hodder house taking its name from Thomas H Hodder, outspoken editor of the Democratic Mirror here during the Civil war.

Built Before War

Although no accurate check can be made on the year in which this old dwelling was erected, many older residents of the city say it was in use before the Civil war.

When a man by the name of Bond built the house, it was one of the finest in Marion, then a growing village. It was among the first brick structures of the city.

The architecture of the building is unique to modern builders. The first story was built on a level with the ground and was of stone. The second or main floor of the house was of brick. An outside stairway led directly to a large portico across the front of the second floor.

The interior of the house was finished in black walnut and was attractive, according to persons who visited the house half a century ago. A greater part of the main floor was given over to a large parlor.

Hodder occupied the house after the Civil war. The building was afterward occupied successively by Mrs Susan A. Powers, Mr Schaff, a former clothier, James Fairbanks and Newton J White, its present owner. White lived in the house many years, vacating it eight years ago. After he left, it was remodeled into a duplex and rented.

May Build Station

Although the house is being wrecked and the lot cleared, it is not definitely known what will be erected in the old building's place. A filling station is being considered by the owner, but plans are not definite.

One of the most interesting personalities to occupy the dwelling was Hodder. He narrowly escaped the violence of a mob for his editorial views during the Civil war. He was not living in the old house at the time, moving to it after the war was over. He was threatened with violence on many occasions. The Marion County History records one instance where the efforts of Rev. H. B. Fry, a Presbyterian minister, saved him from being mobbed. Rev. Fry was spokesman for a committee to wait on Hodder after an indignation meeting had been called on the square following the publication of one of his writings. The editor was accused of being in sympathy with the secessionists. Hodder refused to come to the meeting, whereupon the mob produced a rope and made preparation to hang him.

Rev. Fry's attitude was changed by the sudden seriousness of the situation from persecution to defense of the editor, and he is credited with saving Hodder's life.

The flying of the national flag over Hodder's office after this affair apparently relieved the situation. No further outbreaks were recorded.

LAW SUITS of a minor nature in municipal court often assume queer proportions. An example is the recent suit in which action was brought to collect an account of $5.95. The account was not ordered paid, but the costs in the case for both prosecution and defense amounted to $14. Besides this amount there were attorney fees.

The account was for repairs made on an automobile.

Sugar Water Runs

MAPLE syrup season is here again. To Marionites that does not carry the significance it does to residents of several surrounding counties where the maple sap flows more freely and plentifully.

Practically all collecting of sap and "boiling down" in this county is done to make a small amount of "genuwine" syrup for use around the home, and not for commercial purposes.

Marionites look largely to Morrow and Delaware and Crawford counties for the local supply, often buying it through friends or relatives in those counties. Although all three counties have commercial camps where hundreds of gallons of syrup are boiled down each year, the largest commercial camps are still farther north and to the east of Marion.

Watch the Children

WITH the advent of longer days, children are remaining out of doors longer to play and motorists are beginning to spend the twilight hours in drives around the city.

This combination may result in accidents unless both the children and the motorists are careful, Mrs D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club, pointed out today.

"It's a mighty good thing for children to get out-of-doors, but for their own sakes they ought not to play in the streets," Mrs. Gallagher said.

"Motorists' also ought to drive carefully when on city streets in an effort to safeguard children," she said.

The last hanging in Pennsylvania was that of Sarah J Whiteling on June 25 1889, for poisoning her husband and two children.

One Mistake Listed

Long court battles usually have marked the cases in which women were put to death for crimes. The record of known cases reveals that in only one instance in which a woman was executed has another confessed later to committing the crime. Mrs. Margaret Houghtaling the first woman hanged in New York state, died at Hudson, N Y in 1817 for strangling her child and several years later another woman confessed to the crime.

The list of women legally executed follows:

1781 - Mary Hall, Philadelphia, hanged for burglary.

Sept. 3, 1808 - Elizabeth Rimby hanged at West Chester, Pa.

April 21 1809 Elizabeth Moore York county, Pa hanged.

May 9, 1809 Su anna Cox, Berks county, Pa, hanged for choking to death her newly born child.

Oct 17, 1817 - Mrs. Margaret Houghtaling hanged at Hudson, N. Y., after being convicted of strangling to death her own child.

Jan. 24, 1846 Mrs Elizabeth Van Falkenburg, hanged at Johnstown, N Y.

May 11 1849 Mrs Runkle, of Utica, N. Y., hanged at Whitesboro, N. Y.

July 30, 1852 - Mrs Ann Hoag, hanged at Poughkeepsie, N Y.

Board Revises County Fair 1931 Premium List

Agricultural Society Favors Radio as Free Attraction at Next Exposition; Amount for Prizes To Remain Practically Unchanged Although Some Items Are Altered.

Further revision of the premium list for the 1931 Marion county fair and a discussion to decide what shall be offered as a free attraction at this year's fair occupied a greater share of the time at a full board meeting of the Marion County Agricultural society in the courthouse Saturday.

Although the premium list was considerably revised the total amount of premiums to be offered this year remains practically the same as last year. An effort was made to place the premiums on exhibits of general interest.

The board remained undecided on a free attraction, after several hours' discussion on the topic. It appeared to be the consensus of members that a larger and more elaborate rodeo show would be among the best available attractions.

Still lacking absolute assurance that the race track will be lighted for night racing, the board is unable to definitely arrange the 1931 fair program. Several attractions are under consideration, according to Secretary Carl Sifritt.

By eliminating freak exhibits in the poultry department, R. O. Winch in charge of that department, was able to save enough in premiums to enable the board to add a pet stock exhibit at no extra premium cost to the board. The poultry premium list was completely revised and reduced by Winch and was adopted. Rabbits, dogs and raccoons are among the animals eligible for entry in the pet stock exhibit.

Premiums for home economic exhibits for high school girls as a part of the junior fair were increased between $80 and $90 on advice of Harold Hodson, Smith Hughes agriculture instructor of LaRue and a booster of the junior fair. These additional premiums were made available for girls by striking out premiums for manual training, farm shop and agriculture displays for boys.

Although the art premium list was up for revision, it was left unchanged.

THE SPRINGTIME OF LIFE

Sow wisely in the springtime of life, and in the years to come you will reap a rich harvest, and live in contentment. Every man can command his own future, and be well-to-do financially, or poor and miserable as he alone directs. Every man can make provision for his future years; if he but spends his money wisely, and save a part of his income during working years. Do not let your fate be HARD WORK at the age of sixty or over, but rather let it be leisure, ease and comfort. Begin to provide for your future now, in the springtime of your youth and when your working days are at their best. The future may seem a long way off, but it soon become a present reality. Rogers, Byrd Will Speak on Chain Programs

BY GILSON WRIGHT

TWO of the most widely known men in the United States today will headline the network programs Monday night.

Will Rogers will appear on the Family Party program at 9.30 p. m. over the WEAF network, and Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, whose exploits at the South Pole are known over the civilized world, will speak on a program over the Columbia network at 8.30 p. m.

The famous humorist is making his appearance on the Family Party program as a repayment of the sponsoring company's loan of the Brigadiers, male quartet, who assisted Rogers in his drouth-relief tour of the southwest.

Byrd's talk will be on the National Education association program from Detroit. Another speaker on the program will be Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society.

Musical numbers on Rogers' program will be from shows in which he was starred. These include the Ziegfeld Follies and "Three Cheers," the show in which he pinched hit for Fred Stone when the latter was recovering from airplane accident injuries.

Sherlock Holmes will match his powers against the greatest Don Juan of Europe to save the reputation of a young society girl in the episode, "The Illustrious Client," which will be broadcast over an NBC network Monday at 10 p. m.

• • •

The Gypsy dance from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnole," built on Spanish themes, opens the varied program of the Gypsies, to be broadcast over an NBC network Monday at 8.30 p. m.

• • •

"Changing Egypt" will be the topic discussed by James G. McDonald during the series The World Today which will be broadcast over an NBC network Monday at 7.15 p. m.

Tunes with a western back-ground, notably "On the Alamo" and "Blue Pacific Moonlight" presented by "The Three Bakers" and Leo Reisman's orchestra, provide the musical highlights of the program heard Monday at 8 p. m. over the Columbia network.

• • •

Sousa's "Washington Post March," the March King's tribute to a newspaper, will open the program from Rochester over an NBC network Monday at 10:30 a. m.

• • •

Mendelssohn's "Oh for the Wings of a Dove" is the concluding number of the program which the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and Organ will broadcast from Salt Lake City over an NBC network at 6.15 p. m.

• • •

A Victor Herbert Medley including "Kiss Me Again," "When You're Away" and "I'm Falling in Love with Someone," forms one of the Evening in Paris features scheduled on the Columbia Broadcasting System Monday from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

COUNTRY HAS BIG EGG SUPPLY

Three-Quarter Million Cases Above Demand in 1930, Report Shows.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—The egg supply for the last year was three quarters of a million cases in excess of demand, according to a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau-Corporation. The bulletin continues that the government report for Feb. 1 shows 734,000 cases of 36 dozen eggs remaining in cold storage. In addition to this oversupply of shell eggs, the volume of frozen eggs is almost twice that of a year ago. Other storage eggs are fairly well in line with normal requirements.

The demand for eggs is becoming more and more a demand for eggs of high quality. The way of the careless egg producer becomes harder each year.

Market Overloaded

A storage egg can be a very high class product, but an egg of only fair condition when fresh must move into an already overloaded market as a storage egg. The experience of some of the large egg cooperatives shows that the public does not object to a storage egg of quality.

Improvements in methods of egg production resulting in nearly a year around supply of fresh eggs are common. Consumers are apparently demanding fresh eggs and they are getting them without being obliged to pay excessive prices at any season of the year.

Butter supplies are one-fourth lower than a year ago, but still are well above the average of the last five years. The February report is for 46,771,000 pounds as against 60,230,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 34,117,000 pounds.

Dairy Situation

The dairy business is in only a fair situation in regard to supplies. On the demand side, conditions are not so favorable as on the supply side. The present Chicago butter-fat price of 26 cents a pound is conclusive evidence that the supply of butter is far in excess of the demand at a fair price.

Poultry supplies are rather satisfactory with 101,000,000 pounds reported against 141,000,000 last year and a five-year average of 123,000,000 pounds. Broiler supplies are noticeably smaller than last year.

Lard supplies are reported at 62,850,000 pounds as compared with 92,171,000 last year and a five year average of 90,003,000 pounds. These figures mean that the supply of lard is not excessively large, but lard figures become more difficult to interpret each year because of the increasing use of lard substitutes.

Turning New Pages

WITH EDNA S. DUTTON

SOMETHING of the thrill in the Elsie Dinsmore books is found in Helen Berger's novel "The Crystal Pagoda," the tale of the little school-girl heroine who meets the hero, a great strong young man of 26 whom she believes is the special friend of her roommate.

The story is made quite modern in that the hero is an aviator and his name is Duke Hayward. Page returns to her home in Honolulu to find awaiting her the boyhood friend who seems as devoted to her at 19 as he was four years previous when she left for San Francisco and school.

Page learns a family secret, that her father has been previously married and divorced from a fascinating singer who was his first love and something of a shadow is cast over her life in the knowledge that her father's affections are not entirely centered in the life of her mother.

Events transpire in her own life and her engagement to the boyhood sweetheart is announced. Time brings out the knowledge that her half sister Veronica holds no small amount of interest for Robin and Duke flies out of the sky in time to make the story end very happily.

Lists Highlights of Publishers' Line

THE following books are listed by Richard Massock as highspots of publishers lists:

"Wide Open Town," — Myron Brinig writes an excellent novel about the jealous passion of a young Irish miner for a daughter of joy in the sulphurous air of Butte, Mont.

"This Our Exile,"—A family of trifling young people see life through a fog of gin and epigrams in a first novel of youth by David Burnham.

"Grand Hotel."—The melodramatic novel of 36 hours in a Berlin luxury hotel which the author Vicki Baum, adapted for her stage hit.

"A Night in Kurdistan."—Jean Richard Bloch does a terrific phantasy of Arabian Nights adventure, cruelty and love.

"Best Short Stories of the War,"—Sixty-six tales of all sorts out of the war, brought together in an anthology of 826 pages by editors who should know what's the best.

"Big Money,"—Lord Biskerton, "the Biscuit" is as funny as any other P. G. Wodehouse character.

Non-fiction lists "The Passionate Pilgrim," which many will think the best of recent biographies by Gertrude Marvin Williams.

"Lincoln, the Politician," by Don C. Seitz who believes in politicians.

"Coronado's Children."—Is lore of lost mines and buried treasure in the southwest by J. Frank Dobie University of Texas professor and authority on the subjects.

"Four Cents an Acre,"—The history of a Yankee bargain by which we bought Louisiana from Napoleon, by Georges Oudard.

Actor Tells Story of Career

THE career of Jefferson de Angelis embraces American theatricals from the old-fashioned "variety shows" to the high-powered Broadway of today. Now over 70 years old, de Angelis has been seen in such recent successes as "The Royal Family" and "Apron Strings." He sang prominent roles in Gilbert and Sullivan opera, and he played in "The Passing Show," the first revue that came to New York. He was comedy lead in casts that included Maxine Elliott, Della Fox, Lillian Russell and Marguerite Clark. And in the 1900's New York first saw "Fantana" and took "Tammany" the song that de Angelis introduced, for its own.

The public knows this part of de Angelis' story but the earlier chapters of his life as a wandering trouper are fully as colorful. Born in 1859 in the San Francisco of the Gold Rush he made his first stage appearance at the age of nine. In his youth he toured the United States at one time sharing the hazardous life of a prairie wagon troupe that played its way from Kansas over the Rockies to the Coast. Then he tried his luck in Australia where the gold boom had brought prosperity, drifting from there with his troupe to China, India, the Malay peninsula, Madagascar and South Africa.

The story is told by de Angelis and Alvin F. Harlow in "A Vagabond Trouper."

Story of West Retold in Book

"THE Log of a Cowboy," a story of a young boy's experience in the Rio Grande country, which put in an appearance 30 years ago, again has found its way to the bookshelves and popularity. The author is Andy Adams.

The time is that following the Civil war when the young man's father, a confederate soldier decides to migrate Westward. Settling in Texas he takes up the business of cattle raising. His son Thomas the author of "log" served under Jim Flood, the boss foreman of Don Lovell cowman and drover. Jim knew nothing but cattle. He never crossed a bridge until he came to it, was indulgent to his men's shortcomings so long as they rendered faithful service, and a perfect executive, sharing all dangers with his men and at the same time demanding from them that which he himself was the first to give, hard and unrelenting labor.

Small Town Life in "Tin Types"

"TIN TYPES" by Viola Short, is something of the Main Street variety of story but deals with the inhabitants of a small community. Here are Tat Barker, the girl who was as stubborn as her pa, Grandma Sloan who could tell and did, the age of every person in the community; Jeremiah Smoke, the circuit rider who could shoot the eyebrow off a gnat at 20 paces and didn't mind letting stubborn ministers know it; Parry Semple who owned and operated the church because her father gave $500 to it, and many others.

"Uncertain Traveler" Is First Novel

"THE Uncertain Traveler" by John Fisher, just published by Morrow & Co., is a first novel. It is the story of Frank Bentley, younger son of an English family a restless boy in search of an experience that will give meaning to life. His first adventure is in Italy where he takes part to life. His first adventure is in Italy where he takes part in the Italian revolution of 1849, under Garibaldi Wounded and disillusioned Frank decides to come to America. He drifts west and is caught up in an emigrating wagon on the way to the gold rush. There he meets Sophie, and because of her, he follows the Oregon Trail instead of going to California. In the process life in Oregon he finds tremendous satisfaction and a challenge that make a man of him.

The witnesses were seated on benches built along three sides of the room a chamber approximately 20 feet square. A rope was stretched in front of them, separating them from the center area where the guards and prison officials stood. The electric chair was at the end of this center area.

The state's witnesses were searched by state police before they were admitted to the death chamber.

About 6:45, 15 minutes before Mrs Schroeder was placed in the death chair, and while witnesses were preparing to enter the execution chamber, Rev. Teagarden and Rev. C H Lauer, prison chaplain who accompanied the woman into the death chamber, stood on the floor of the prison outside the death house and the execution room, near the cells where the prisoners then were confined, and sang three hymns - "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "At the Cross" and "Happy Day."

The ministers were singing "Happy Day" when the witnesses entered the death chamber.

No Final Meeting

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague did not see each other this morning. As the woman was taken from her cell in the death house, a screen was placed in front of the cell housing Dague.

The prisoners were in excellent spirits in their last hours. Both arose after having spent the night in sleep. A matron greeted Mrs. Schroeder with "How are you this morning, Irene?"

"Fine," the prisoner replied calmly.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe announced prior to the electrocution that Dague had turned over to him writings that he termed the final chapter" of his life story. Dague requested the warden to turn the writings over to the Rev. Mr. Teagarden.

Testimonials to the good care the prisoners received in the months of incarceration in the Lawrence county jail were contained in the announcement that Mrs Schroeder had gained 22 pounds and Dague 40 pounds since their imprisonment. The woman was 22 years old last week. Dague was 34.

NAMED AS SLAYER

Irene's Brother Said To Have Admitted Killing Corporal Paul

By The Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 23—Joe F. Wells, alias Vernon Ackerman, of Guthrie, Okla., companion of Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague when they were captured in Arizona, and now serving a life term in the Arizona penitentiary, said last night Tom Crawford, Irene's brother, before dying in his arms in January 1929, said Crawford had fired the shots which killed Corporal Brady Paul.

Wells joined them as they fled westward, late in 1929, and was involved in a running fight in Arizona, in which a deputy sheriff was wounded fatally. He was convicted.

Then the trio was captured near Phoenix, Jan. 145, 1930. Wells at first was believed to be Tom Crawford.

Tom Crawford is dead from gunshot wounds received in Pennsylvania," Wells asserted.

"He made a statement to me while dying in my arms that he fired the shots from the back of the car that killed Paul.

"Crawford's body was thrown by me, into the river at Matamoras, Mexico."

OPPOSED LIFE PLEAS

Letter Reveals Dague and Irene Objected To Efforts on Stay.

By The Associated Press.

BELLEFONTE, Pa. Feb. 23.—Disclosure that Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague had asked their counsel not to take steps to obtain a further stay of sentence "because we do not want life imprisonment now" was contained in a letter written by Dague and made public by the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, today.

Dague revealed himself in the letter as a man who had spurned a call to "consecrate my life to the service of God" back in October, 1917.

In his letter, dated Feb 22, Dague wrote to the Rev. Mr. Teagarden. He said he "had the call from God to consecrate my life to his service," at a time when the minister was in the pulpit at his church in Dallas, W. Va.

Dague recalled that the minister had asked if there was "a young man here who will consecrate himself to God."

"God is calling, and he does not answer," Dague quoted Mr. Teagarden as saying. "That man will sink to the depths of hell."

"He could not have known that I was that young man" Dague wrote.

BURIAL PLANS MADE

Dague's Body Goes to West Virginia, Irene's to Bellaire, Ohio.

By The Associated Press.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 23.—Between the graves of his mother and sister, whose deaths held some of the tragedy of his own, Walter Glenn Dague will be buried.

The dapper Wheeling, W. Va., man whose life was taken in the electric chair of Rockview penitentiary in Pennsylvania for slaying a state highway officer, will be buried tomorrow in Marshall county, W. Va., back of the Sand Hill Methodist Episcopal church where he once taught a Sunday school class and led a Boy Scout troop.

Two days after Dague returned to his home from the World war training camp Dague's sister died of tuberculosis. The mother, who had attended her daughter day and night, dropped dead.

Mrs. Theresa Dague, whom the man deserted to join Mrs. Irene Schroeder in banditry, murder, and now in death, has purchased a gray casket for her husband's body. Rev. H. O. Teagarden will conduct the services for Dague.

Services for Mrs. Schroeder will be held tomorrow at undertaking parlors in Wheeling by Rev. W. M. Sprague of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will take place in the family plot in Mt. Rose cemetery, Bellaire, O., which already contains the graves of her mother and eight brothers and sisters. One of these brothers, Arthur Crawford, was shot and killed by guards as he attempted to escape from a prison in Missouri.

CLUB HOLDS PARTY

Vernon Heights Students Hold George Washington Affair.

The Blue Triangle club of Vernon Heights school entertained with a George Washington guest day party in the gymnasium of the school Saturday night. Virginia Stock, president, was in charge of the program given in the first part of the party. At the close of the program contests were held in which awards were presented Betty Fetter and Elizabeth Houser.

A two-course luncheon was served at small tables decorated with lighted candles. Ruth Turner, Catherine Watson, Dorothy Connarty, Elizabeth Parshall, Mary Lou Ulsh and Mary Margaret Lill, in colonial costumes, served.

The program opened with patriotic airs sung by June Price, Reva Loudenslager, Beatrice Uncapher and Eleanor Epley and a tribute to Washington by Eleanor Epley. Martha Lauchet sang a solo, "Long, Long Ago," after which Virginia Stock, Beatrice Uncapher, Mary Lou Ulsh, Maxine McDaniel, Reva Loudenslager, Cleo Betz, Marjorie McElroy and Catherine Watson danced a minuet. A playlet, "Patriotic Women," was given by a cast including Mary Ann Young, Eloise Powers, Johanna Deigle, Marjorie McElroy, Mary Lou Ulsh, Norma Barret and Virginia Stock.

Former War Secretary Returns from Cruise

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker returned today from a vacation cruise in the Mediterranean. He declined to discuss the Wickersham commission's report, which he signed as a member of the commission despite his advocacy of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

"Mr. Wickersham speaks for the commission," he said.

Mr. Baker left on the cruise a week before the report was made public.

Firebug Sought After Fifth Fire in County

Hemorrhoids

How to End Painful Piles Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause — that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Henney & Cooper says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. —Adv.

one deputy sheriff and fatally wounded another in Arizona.

On the morning of Dec. 27, 1929, Mrs Schroeder, Dague and Tom Crawford, the woman's brother had robbed a grocery store at Butler, Pa. A report of the robbery was sent to New Castle. Corporal Paul and Moore sped out along the New Castle-Butler road and stopped all approaching automobiles.

When the officers stopped the bandit machine, they were probably off their guard because there was a woman and a small boy, Mrs. Schroeder's son, in the car.

Dague and the woman stepped from the automobile with drawn weapons. There was gun fire. Moore testified at the woman's trial that she fired at Paul. The woman admitted she actively engaged in the shooting. Paul and Moore fell, the latter rendered unconscious by a bullet. The bandits then sped on. Paul died an hour later. Moore recovered to tell his story.

Boy Provides Evidence

Days after the gun battle, authorities found Mrs. Schroeder's little son with relatives near Wheeling and the boy, investigators said, unknowingly furnished information that linked his mother with the crime.

In January came news of the kidnaping of Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman at Florence, Ariz., by a woman and two men. Arizona officers engaged in a gun fight with the fugitives. Chapman and Deputy Lee Wright were wounded, the latter fatally.

It all ended behind a rock pile where the fugitives dug into the wasteland, crammed cartridges into their guns and voted to fight it out with the posse. Airplanes shot down close and threatened to bomb them. It was not until then that Mrs. Schroeder, who had kept the expedition on the move by sheer nerve, broke under the strain. She had visions and strange, appalling clouds drifted down the sky.

"Cross of Jesus"

"One of the clouds looked like the cross of Jesus," she related later. "Another looked like an ostrich. I figured that the clouds were a sign. The ostrich comes from Africa and we thought that was a sign we should go to Africa and preach about Jesus. We figured by that sign Jesus would carry us through. Then I said it was best to give up. I told Glenn I would get a chance to see my boy again. So Glenn yelled at the men, 'All right, boys.'"

With their tattered clothing hanging about them, the three tossed their pistols to the ground and that night was spent in the Phoenix jail.

Arizona authorities gave over the woman and Dague to Pennsylvania for the killing of Paul. The other man was Vernon Ackerman, alias Joe Wells, now serving a life sentence in Arizona.

Crawford Disappears

Authorities never learned what became of Crawford, although Dague's wife has said Dague told her Crawford was fatally wounded in the New Castle gun battle and that the fleeing couple buried him.

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague lost battle after battle in the state courts and before the pardon board and two governors to escape the death penalty.

Their last hope vanished last week when Governor Pinchot refused to intervene.

RUM BOATS SINK

Coast Guard Patrol Has Running Battle with Liquor Craft.

By The Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 23- Two rum runners were believed to have been sunk just outside Newport harbor early today during a running fight with coast guard patrol boats.

Police received reports that the crews of the two boats were taken aboard coast guard patrol boats which proceeded to New London, Conn.

The rattle of machine gun fire and the roar of one-pounders could be clearly heard in the city. From the high bluffs that overlook the sea at the outskirts of the city, two patrol boats could be seen engaging in battle with a squirming power boat which headed for the open sea and seemingly escaped.

Some American capitalist will change that coal into powder at the mine, change the powdered coal into electric power, extracting by-products worth more than the coal, and ship the power by wire all over Mexico's west coast.

That may be the start of a great industrial development sure to come here, where efficient labor and unlimited raw materials invite energy and industrial ambition.

IN VISITING the works now before the new vehicle bridge over the Sonora river is built you ride across the river in a two-wheel cart, drawn by three donkeys harnessed abreast.

Coming the other way yesterday was a load of wood drawn by five donkeys barely able to keep their feet with the water as high as their shoulders. Pulling was difficult donkeys fear to work in water and the load of mesquite wood was heavy. The little creatures struggled desperately and with the help of volunteers from shore, turning the wheels by hand, they finally came to shore.

Men work hard for a living in this country. As for the donkeys, if no heaven is prepared for them that now bear the burden for millions of human beings, there is lack of justice.

M. E. CHURCH ENDS REVIVAL SERVICES

Thirty-Seven Answer Call to Altar at Wesley; Pastor Preaches.

Rev. W. Martell Geoffe brought the revival services at Wesley M. E. church to a close last night, with a total of 37 responses to the altar call since the meetings opened. In his closing sermon, on "The Holy Ghost Our Glorious Hope," he said in part.

"There are many people who have lost all hope of eternal life. The angels of the devil have no hope. They sinned against the world and will be chained until the judgment of God. But to other than this class of people, God says 'You have sinned against Me but I have provided a way out for you.'

"Those that pray and plead for lost souls have hope. The people who are ready to surrender to God also have the glorious hope in Jesus Christ our Saviour. You have one chance and God will come into your heart if you take this chance and surrender your heart and life to him."

INVADE HOTEL

Gunmen Rob Guest in Michigan Resort of Valuable Rings.

By International News Service.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 23.- Four men, armed with pistols and sawed-off shotgun, today invaded the foyer of the Arethusa hotel in this Michigan health resort and robbed a Cleveland, Ohio, guest of two diamond rings valued at $5,500. Police later were advised that two of the alleged robbers were captured in Detroit.

Fourteen guests were in the lobby of the Arethusa house when the bandits entered. While three men covered them with guns, another went to a table where Mrs. Samuel Alter, of Cleveland, was playing bridge, and forced the woman to surrender the two valuable rings.

Authorities spread a dragnet for the other two robbers.

President Making Vets' Loan Inquiry

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. President Hoover, preparatory to vetoing the veterans' loan bill, is having an inquiry made throughout the country to ascertain the degree and number of veterans in distress.

At the White House today it was said various federal agencies are making queries to ascertain also how effective the legislation would be as a relief measure.

Under the bill the ex-soldier would be able to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of his adjusted compensation certificate.

The measure is to be vetoed between now and Thursday.

Efforts are to be made in congress to override the veto at once.

Dr. Turley Speaks at Vernon School Assembly

Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, addressed an assembly of Vernon Heights school students this morning. The assembly was called to honor the birthday of George Washington. Richard Rawlings, vice president of the school, presided. The program opened with a song, "America the Beautiful," followed by Dr. Turley's talk on "The Life of George Washington." A song, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," closed the program.

ceived the grand cross of the order of the British empire.

Mme. Melba, who became known as the Australian Nightingale, was born May 19, 1859 near Melbourne, Australia and took her stage name from that city. She was the daughter of David Mitchell, a contractor.

At the age of six she made her first appearance as a vocalist, singing two little ballads to her own accompaniment at a church concert in Melbourne.

Her stage debut was made in Brussels. When she was 28 she appeared as Gilda in "Rigoletto," which became one of her favorite parts in later years. She was an instantaneous success and in 1888 decided to attempt a part in "Lucia di Lammermoor" at Covent Garden. This appearance was even more brilliant than her Brussels debut had been, and was followed by successes at Milan, Paris, Stockholm, Berlin and finally New York.

PROSPECT ST. CHURCH REVIVAL CONTINUES

Rev. Edna Beougher Hughes Preaches at Morning and Night Services.

The Prospect Street M. E. church was filled to capacity yesterday morning and night to hear Rev. Edna Beougher Hughes of Lancaster. In the morning she preached on "Heaven and How To Get There." Last night her subject was "The Pay Envelope."

There were 22 responses to the altar call yesterday. The revivals will continue until March 1.

"You are either a sinner or a believer," she said last night. "Sin has its sure rewards, and godliness has its sure reward. Sin is cruel even though some people have sugar coated it. There is a difference between a sin and a mistake, but too often people commit a sin and say it was a mistake.

"The reward of sin is death. Or as the scripture states, 'The wages of sin is death' but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

DEMOCRATIC DRYS PREPARE FOR FIGHT

Party Ballot Likely Over Expected Raskob Proposal on Prohibition Question.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. Whatever intentions Chairman Raskob may or may not have in regard to lining up the Democratic national committee on the wet side of the prohibition fence dry members of the group are set for an aggressive try at squelching any such plan.

The committee will meet here March 5, at the chairman's call.

Future policies, he announced will form a topic for discussion. Rumors have been current a resolution is being framed to push this steering group of the party off the prohibition fence. The rumors have not been denied.

Some of the dry Democrats on Capitol hill have been roused to a fever heat of activity. Yesterday Senator Morrison of North Carolina asserted his group had sufficient votes to defeat any wet resolution. Other Democratic leaders in congress are trying to head off the issue by having the rumored resolution shelved now.

The impending meeting has brought out a crop of presidential candidates. Most of those being boomed are far from dry.

Governor Roosevelt of New York, remains the most discussed possibility here but the names of Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, are among those being advanced.

MRS. STERNS DIES

Former Marion Resident Claimed in Columbus.

The body of Mrs. Mary Sterns, 67, at one time a resident of Marion, will be brought here Tuesday and placed in a crypt at the Marion mausoleum. Mrs. Sterns died yesterday at 1:45 a. m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Tucker, of Columbus.

She is the half sister of W. D. McKinnon of 411 Blaine avenue and is the sister of Mrs. H. Grove of Linden place and Wilson Ryland of Mansfield. Her two sons and husband preceded her in death.

She lived in Marion on South High street until four years ago and since that time has lived in Columbus and Mansfield. Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church will read a short prayer service at 3:30 p. m. at the mausoleum.

CONSIDER BILLS

Ohio Legislature Committees Face Task of Sorting Proposed Measures

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23 - Returning from their week end recess, members of the Ohio legislature today faced the task of sorting out some of the many bills introduced during the present session. Many of the measures will be considered by the various standing committees during the week.

The committees will get down to work after the usual opening session of the assembly tonight. Interest centered on the Foster bill proposing abolition of the elective office of chief justice of the state supreme court, thus making the office rotate among the seven members. This measure comes up before the house committee on organization of state government tonight.

Tomorrow committees will take up the old age pensions bill; the auto drivers responsibility bill, the bill proposing reallocation of gasoline tax monies, and the measure proposing abandonment of the Miami and Lake Erie canal from Middletown to Toledo for highway purposes.

SUSPECT CAPTURED AFTER GUN BATTLE

Citizens Aid Authorities Catch Party Battle Likely Over Ex-Wanted In Tenn.

BARNESVILLE, O., Feb. 23 - Wounded after a desperate running gun fight in which armed citizens of this village aided police, Lonnie Taylor, 24, and two of his companions were held here today for authorities of Knoxville, Tenn.

Taylor was decoyed here by a faked letter bearing the name of his young bride of a year, along with Bertha Arnn 24, and H. S. Smith, 26, all wanted on robbery charges.

Smith and the woman were arrested at a hotel without trouble, but Taylor barricaded himself in the bathroom of his wife's home when Chief of Police C. C. Bulger and three patrolmen entered.

Battering down the door, the officers met a fusillade of bullets, one of them ripping the chief's cap from his head, and in the confusion Taylor leaped from a second story window. He seized an automobile and went speeding down the street in a hail of bullets from citizens who had hastily armed themselves and waited at street corners. More than 100 shots were fired, but Taylor was unscathed. A mile from town, however, his car failed to make a curve and he surrendered.

Mal Daugherty To Take Stand In Bank Fraud Case.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 - Mal S. Daugherty, charged with criminal responsibility in the failure of the Ohio state band of which he formerly was president, was slated to take the witness stand today or tomorrow in an effort to clear himself.

Daugherty, who is on trial on the first of 16 indictments returned against him, can "explain every thing," his attorneys said. The state has introduced evidence to the effect that he owed the bank more than $40,000, when it failed last May and that he manipulated blank notes to his own benefit.

The first witness today, H. G. Coffman, head of the Coffman Manufacturing company, testified he had had business with Daugherty for many years and had borrowed money from Daugherty individually and from banks in which Daugherty was interested. He said he borrowed approximately $40,000 from Daugherty, giving notes for the amount.

side the prison walls, with machine guns as their weapons, found the three men easy targets and mowed them down before they had a chance to reach two automobiles parked on a road near the prison, presumably by confederates.

Occupants of the cars, pursued by guards in two automobiles, drove rapidly toward Chicago and escaped.

Lock Guard In Icebox

Joseph Norklewicz, 31, and Julio Chileno, 39, both serving time for a confidence game, and Alvin J. Kilman 34, a convicted robber, were the men killed. They were part of a kitchen detail of five convicts. Overpowering Frank Lambert, a lone guard, they locked him in a refrigerator about 3 a. m.

Using large sticks taken from an adjoining bakery and nails smuggled from the prison machine shop the plotters constructed a crude ladder which they carried across the prison yard to the southeast corner. Here they placed the ladder against a tool shed and barber shop and mounted to the roof, clamping a cable, also stolen from the machine shop, onto an abutting wall.

Norklewicz was the first to climb down. The guards in a restaurant across the street and in an automobile parked in a vacant lot near by, waited. Chileno followed the leader. Still the guards withheld their fire. Then Kilman began his descent and the order to shoot came.

Three Mowed Down

Norklewicz ran straight into the two ambuscades and fell—with a dozen shots in his body. Chileno leaped over this body and was caught by the fire, falling near his leader. Kilman, his hands still entwined about the cable, ran into the fire of the second ambush. Two other would be escapees scampered back inside to safety.

From Washington comes the news that Alice Paul is planning a militant drive, her plan being to deluge the delegates to the Geneva conference with letters and cables demanding international women's rights. Well, well, Alice has been quiet so long, that we naturally assumed the possibility that she had married and was exercising woman's rights by her own individual might.

The residents of a village in the district of a well-known member of the lower house of congress have written him asking him to use his influence with the proper government authorities to do away with the "Stadick" which is interferring with the reception of the community radio set. "Stadick" is a new way of putting it, but it is plain as the nose on one's face that the villagers in question are right in line with the popular trend to look to the government for the correction of each and every ill, real or assumed, they may suffer.

Dead a Year, Found Guilty of Murder.

In her grave almost a year, Adele Ritchie, the "Dresden China Doll" of the musical comedy stage of twenty years ago who killed her friend, Doris Murray Palmer, and then took her own life, was found guilty of murder, last week, out at Santa Ana, California. The proceeding in which the finding was made is said to have had no precedent in the annals of legal jurisprudence in California. By the decision, the estate of the one-time stage beauty is denied a legacy willed to her by Mrs. Palmer, a society leader of Laguna Beach and the late wife of the actor, Guy Bates Post.

Miss Ritchie's executors sought to secure the proceeds of a $1,000 life insurance policy and jewelry valued at $500 which were left to the actress by the will of Mrs. Palmer. Mrs. Palmer's relatives opposed the attempt of the executors on the ground that one who commits murder can not benefit from the estate of the one murdered, and set up the finding of the corner's jury, that the killing was committed in a fit of jealousy over the social prestige won from the actress by her younger divorcee friend.

The unique character of the proceeding, the cause of the slaying and the prominence of the principals in the tragedy combine to make the matter interesting beyond the ordinary, but the average reader will be inclined to feel that the reopening of the tragedy by dragging it into court is too high a price to pay for a chance to secure $1,500, especially when the chance was an exceedingly poor one to say the least.

Some Facts About Sleep.

Dr. Donald Laird, the eminent psychologist of Hamilton, New York, several days ago told the members of the Cleveland Advertising club many things concerning sleep which doubtless were new to them, and we believe they will prove new to those who have not come upon at least an outline of the doctor's address.

Practically all of us know that at times we are sleepy and that at times we are not. Many of us knew that at times our sleep is restful; that as a result of it we arise refreshed and invigorated in the morning, while at other times we are restless and get up in the morning with "that tired feeling."

Since scales have become common as accessories of bathrooms, many of us have come to know that, under ordinary conditions of activity, we at times take on weight during our wakeful hours and lose weight during our hours of sleep. In a word, that at times we weigh more stripped when we are ready to retire for the night than we do when we arise in the morning. But Doctor Laird, though not alluding to this fact in his Cleveland address, told his hearers many facts connected with sleep far more surprising.

Dr. Laird said that after we have slept for four hours we have recuperated physically from our work of the previous day; that after five hours' sleep our speed and accuracy on mental work begins to pick up; that after eight hours' sleep accuracy alone increases, but that one engaged in work which demands both speed and accuracy needs between eleven and twelve hours of sleep out of twenty-four.

We are wondering how many Americans in this day and age in which we are burning up the candle at both ends are equipping themselves by sleep for a high degree of both speed and accuracy.

According to this New York state scientist, sleep does two things. It is a safety valve for sanity and emotions and it allows metabolism to go on. Metabolism, it may be said, is the biological term for the act or process by which on the one hand the dead food is build up into living matter, and by which, on the other, matter is broken down into simpler products within a cell or organism.

Then the doctor sprung a fact which must have carried surprise, even amazement, to all his hearers. He told them that a man is from an eighth to a quarter of an inch taller in the morning than he is at night.

The doctor deprecated the use of alarm clocks, holding that it was far too trying on the nerves of most people. In this connection, the doctor made plain that he is not an alarmist on the subject of coffee. Coffee isn't really responsible for keeping people awake, he said, it usually is "a post mortem of a bridge game."

And then Dr. Laird made an assertion which may give rise to controversy. Women, he said, sleep better than men because they are less active both physically and mentally.

For obvious reasons we wish to be understood as giving this last contention of the doctor simply because it was uttered by the doctor, and we present it utterly without prejudice on our part.

Dr. Rafael Requena, president of the state of Araqua in Venezuela, is about ready to publish the result of his life's work which he declares will present conclusive evidence of the existence of an ancient Egyptian civilization in Venezuela. Scarcely a year passes that more evidence is not adduced to indicate that there probably is something in the legend of the lost Atlantis.

The Final Test.

Dr. Albert Michelson, first American physicist to win the Nobel prize for science, has begun his final experiment. Two years ago he calculated the speed of light at 286,285 miles a second, but he fears there may have been an error of a mile a second. At the age of seventy-eight he realizes that if his computation is to be infallible he must waste no time.

The experiment will be made in a vacuum tube three feet in diameter and a mile long. Mirrors at each end of the tube will reflect light from an arc lamp through the vacuum tube ten times, the final reflection to be "caught" in such a way that the exact time required for the original ray to travel ten miles may be determined. It is one of the most elaborate pieces of equipment ever assembled.

Thanks to able assistants, Dr. Michelson is relieved of all routine work in the experiment, which will require at least three weeks more for completion. His search for perfection is close to the end, and he is entitled to the natural increase in its efficiency. The best wishes of all are extended to him in his tireless effort to contribute one fixed fact to the world's store of knowledge.

An airplane which is claimed to be foolproof and as easy of operation as an automobile was given a tryout near New York City this week and landed safely six times, after the power had been shut off, without human direction or control. So it's as easy of operation as an automobile? Wonder what might happen were it under human direction and control? It's when cars are under human direction and control that the smash-ups usually occur.

Statistics compiled following a survey made in the city of Detroit of pedestrians killed in auto traffic show that the best age for escaping automobiles is from fifteen to twenty-four years; the second best from twenty-five to forty-four, and that pedestrian deaths are highest for the group above sixty-five years. Naturally, we true aristocrats of the land are unable to move so quickly or jump so far after we pass the three-score mark.

Major Edward F. Knight, of the Seventy-First regiment of the New York National guard, just back from Africa, reports that the French Foreign legion is a body of soldiery unsurpassed in all the world. The worth of the legion as a fighting organization has long been recognized, but the major springs a real surprise by stating that sixty per cent. of its members are Germans. Now wouldn't that jar you—with the World war only twelve years in the past?

"YOU WOULDN'T FOOL ME, WOULD YOU?"

Editorial Opinion.

IN QUEST OF CAPONE.

There is something comical and something sad in the countless efforts of courts and district attorneys and federal sleuths to bring Alphonse Capone to justice. Throughout the nation there is an unswerving conviction that Capone is at the bottom of Chicago's gang troubles, and those of some other cities. That conviction is unquestioned. But Capone's conviction is quite another matter.

With the regularity of the moon's phases law enforcement agencies announce they have found the way to trap the supreme gangster of this overgangstered nation. But each time there is a flaw in their technic, or perhaps a great many flaws in the machinery under their guidance.

Just now Capone is due in federal court in Chicago, charged with contempt of court two years ago. Civic authorities also want him, whenever he enters the portals of the Windy City. Yet the chance of convicting him, should he appear, are none too good.

Although but one case, and an overpublicized case, Capone's lasting immunity for his misdeeds typifies a grave shortcoming in American life. The law is framed to protect citizens from crime, and also to protect the individual from the harassing tactics of police and government. For a complex of reasons, the law is rather more effective in protecting the intelligent wrongdoer than in protecting the public.

There is little of malice in the universal desire to see Capone brought to trial. He has not been made a scapegoat for the crimes of a horde of gangsters. On the contrary, he has been idealized by a too tolerant public. While Capone is at large, growing wealthier from illicit industries, the legal system of America is under indictment.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE IS LOSING HIS GRIP

Mr. Lloyd George's assertion that the bankers are responsible for present financial conditions was effectively denied by Sir John Simon, a Liberal who no longer follows the leader of the party. He said truly that it was largely owing to the banking interests that the credit of Great Britain, in spite of well nigh insuperable difficulties, remains unimpaired.

There must be many members of the party to whom Mr. Lloyd George's demagogic utterances are offensive. Some of the more influential have already followed Sir John in his attitude of severe criticism. It may soon become a question how long the former prime minister can retain his power. His course of late has been almost too eccentric for any one to follow.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Romance That Made Cincinnati.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

A romance determined that Cincinnati should be located where it is, instead of at North Bend, farther west in Hamilton county. Two small towns had been established where Cincinnati now is, but they were not flourishing, and several floods had served to check their growth. Colonel Symmes, the purchaser of the land between the two Miami rivers, was ambitious to have a great city located at North Bend. He had applied to General Harmer, the military commander of the district, to establish a military force in that vicinity for the defense of the Miami settlements, and North Bend was indicated as the place where the military headquarters should be. General Harmer complied with the request, though the detail was small—so small that Colonel Symmes complained that it was inadequate. But it was established at North Bend, and Colonel Symmes let it go at that.

The garrison was under command of an ensign, named Luce. That rank corresponded to a second lieutenant in our present army organization. Ensign Luce constructed a block house at North Bend, but it was a small one, as he was not yet certain where the military headquarters should be. In a short time the ensign fell desperately in love with a young lady at North Bend, who a little later removed to Cincinnati. The ensign soon found it necessary to go to Cincinnati "to study the land," and as Colonel Symmes feared, came back thoroughly convinced that the garrison should be located at Cincinnati, as it shortly thereafter was.

Having military headquarters carried with it a certain prestige in that day of Indian peril that was a real asset to a struggling young town, and from that day Cincinnati forged ahead and North Bend dwindled until it hardly merited the distinction of a hamlet.

Don't Poultice Common Boil.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In the good old days, the victim of a boil was treated at home. Grandmother would apply a bread and milk poultice to bring the boil to a head. There was a great dread of the knife in those times. Even the doctor hated to use it. The simple measures were depended upon by everybody.

Modern surgery does not depend on these remedies of long ago. Experience has taught us that if a boil appears, we are dealing with an infection. To get rid of the first boil and to avoid a series of them, we must remove the infection.

In some cases the quickest and safest way to deal with the boil is by means of an incision. This is no longer the simple lancing of the days long gone. A wide opening is made so as to insure drainage of all the accumulated pus.

Most of us fear the scalpel or knife just as much as our ancestors did. But instead of fearing this little operation, we should respect it for the great aid and relief it gives.

Sometimes boils terminate in abscesses, which require more radical surgery. This complication is usually the penalty of delay. Fussing with useless poultices has softened the tissues and encouraged germ growth. An abscess is the natural result.

It is not necessary that every boil should be opened. But it is certain that poultices should not be applied to these infections.

Above all things do not squeeze a boil. The most dangerous thing you can do is to squeeze it. By doing so, you break the defensive wall that nature has thrown up around the boil. When you destroy this, you produce an abscess, which may do serious harm.

In cases where infection is present, but the pus is deep seated, it is wise to apply heat. This is best done by applications of gauze dipped in hot boric acid solution and kept hot by placing a hot water bag over it.

The effect of this treatment is to reduce the pain and localize the pus. Then it may be opened.

This is spoken of as bringing the boil to a head. If you continue with the hot applications, the pus will escape without squeezing. If poultices are applied, there will result a ragged opening, with great chance of the infection spreading.

To those individuals who are afflicted with numerous boils, modern medicine offers the use of a vaccine. These vaccines are of two kinds. The so-called "stock vaccine" is used, or a vaccine made out of the pus obtained from the patient's boil.

Boils are never to be ignored and played with. I have known of serious results following the improper care of the common, everyday boil.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MISS E. V. Q—I am a girl fifteen, five feet eight inches tall—will I continue to grow taller? When will I start to develop? What should I weigh?

2—What will clear the complexion of blackheads, pimples; etc.?

A—No, you have probably attained your full growth. You should develop generally within the next five or six years. You should weigh about 135 pounds—this is about the average for one of your age and height, as determined by the examination of a large number of persons.

2—Proper diet and regular elimination should be of general benefit.

• • •

J. A. P. Q—What can be done for an oily skin and enlarged pores?

2—What can be done for eyelashes that fall out?

A—Proper diet and regular elimination should be generally helpful in this case.

2—Try application of one per cent. yellow oxide of mercury ointment—this may be applied nightly with good results. If the eyelids are red and inflamed see an eye specialist for examination and further advice.

• • •

E. J. B. Q—What can be done for whiteheads on the lower part of the face, particularly in the corners of the mouth? I can not seem to get rid of these blemishes.

A—Correct your diet and be sure that the system is kept clear.

• • •

THANK YOU. Q—How can I reduce a large, fat nose?

A—The only alternative would be to see a plastic surgeon for his advice. It is impossible to reduce the size of the nose otherwise.

M. D. Q—Why is salt prohibited in cases where the blood pressure is too high?

A—Too much salt is injurious to the kidneys and in many instances the kidneys are involved when the blood pressure is too high. Your doctor will advise you.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Feb. 23—Buried in the archives of the state department in Washington is an historical treasure which well might cause the mouth of any historian to water.

It is the detailed minutes and other data of the conversations at Paris at the time of the post war peace conference of the "Big Four"—Wilson, Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Sonnino.

It is doubtful whether these documents ever will be made public. Much of the American foreign correspondence in 1914-15 already has been printed by order of congress. Other volumes are to follow. But these reminders of the days of the "Big Four" deliberations will not be included.

Those were the days, probably, when President Wilson was beginning to discover that his ideal of "open covenants, openly arrived at" was an ideal only, and hardly applicable to the unwrangling of the more delicate problems of European diplomacy.

Even at this comparatively late date, there is doubtless material in those conversations which might quiet old clamors, were they to be made public.

It would take assent of the other three governments, as well as congressional action, to get them out to the light. Probably some day a movement will be started to have them made public.

For who knows what controversies of long standing might be settled, what misapprehensions be brushed away, if the world knew just what these great men had said to each other in those critical hours.

There is one, for instance, of which the writer has knowledge. It had to do with the Russian revolution and the plans of Marshal Foch for a military cordon around Russia, to keep what was termed the radicalism from straying afield.

Foch had presented his plans to the "Big Four." Wilson was a bit skeptical. He called in his own supreme war staff representative—that famous old cavalry officer, General Bliss—and asked his views.

And General Bliss in hard, blunt cavalry fashion, gave his opinion to the president.

He was completely against it.

If, the general said, there was a new idea in human relations behind the Russian turmoil, no number of bayonets would be able to check or destroy it. If there was no new idea, why worry about the Russian affair at all? It could not prevail, he contended.

The matter has been mentioned in memoirs and other publications since that time. But the text of this philosophical reasoning from the lips of a hard-boiled professional soldier would make highly interesting reading now.

At that time, either his opinion or something else served to squelch Foch's plan. It was never put into operation.

And there are other such incidents buried in this mass of data—many just as interesting and far-reaching.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday, February 23.

J. W. Staub, Jay M. Lewis, George Lusch, Earl McDonald, Philip Rea, John Abbott, James Price, Ted Debarsfine, Harry Copeland and Floyd Mapes organized a Young Men's club with the first named as president. Later the membership was increased to twenty-five.

Science and Agriculture.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The application of scientific principles to agriculture is destined to be one of the greatest and most intensive fields of study in the twentieth century. The invention of agricultural implements and farm machinery, of great ingenuity and sometimes of considerable complexity, has revolutionized agriculture during the past century. Vast agricultural experiments in the West and Northwest in the country, even vaster experiments on a hitherto unprecedented scale in Russia under the soviet regime, give indication of the farreaching sweep of the movements in modern agriculture.

Increasing study of some of the more vital factors affecting agriculture, viewed from the angle of soil rather than of machinery, is clearly indicated as a necessity for the beneficial development of systems of food supply in America.

One such vital factor is that of erosion as a factor in soil determination. It is probably true that, for certain areas, erosion has been overstressed as a factor in soil deterioration. With some types of land, especially level lands, erosion losses are practically negligible. Miller maintains that on the great majority of the farms in the corn and wheat belts, and on many farms in the cotton belt, the losses may be classed as moderate.

In regions where the climate is temperate to subtropical and other natural conditions are favorable to erosion, the factor of erosion enters as the most important of all factors giving rise to serious soil deterioration. A certain amount of erosion, as has been indicated, may actually be beneficial. If a certain limited amount of erosion takes place, the soil is rejuvenated.

New layers of soil are steadily, if slowly, pushed up and brought within the action of surface weathering agencies and root penetration. Systems of cropping and general erosion control act as measures for soil preservation; and, under such treatment, soils thus treated remain most productive under agriculture.

Various methods may be employed to offset the disadvantages of erosion. The plow is constantly bringing new layers of subsurface soil to the top, and this, coupled with any use of fertilizers, raw subsoils may be made to produce good crops. But these methods are expensive and never so satisfactory as when the natural surface soil is preserved.

Science must be applied to agriculture on a large scale in the near future. The farmer, on a continental scale, must be taught to take advantage of minimizing, as far as possible, erosion losses. Moreover, they must be brought to realize that erosion may largely be controlled by mechanical means, such as terracing, soil-saving dams, and contour farming.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

SPECIAL JURY INDICTS FIVE

Men Will Be Arraigned Saturday Afternoon Before Judge Vaughan.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 23—Six indictments against five men were returned by the special grand jury in session here Saturday. One was secret. The five men will be arraigned before Judge Vaughan Saturday.

Melvin Hawkins, Edison youth indicted a second time for allegedly wounding George Price with a .22 caliber rifle, is at liberty under bond, and John Reynolds, of Bennington township, indicted a second time for pointing a shotgun at Walter Hardesty, another Bennington township resident, is also at liberty. Previous indictments for these alleged offenses were quashed by Judge Vaughan when attorneys for the two claimed that the indictments were faulty.

Thomas Bailey and Eugene Hunt of Denmark were indicted for larceny. They are alleged to have stolen 32 chickens valued at $48 from the farm of Henry Miller.

Paul Bird and Ferd Highland of Cardington were indicted for larceny. They are charged with having stolen 15 chickens valued at $37.50 from the farm of James P. Bennett, a short distance south of Mt. Gilead.

Albert Wolfe, 30, of Chester township, was indicted on two counts. The first was for burglary and larceny in entering the hardware store of Stump and Byrant at Chesterville on the night of Jan. 7, 1931. A second burglary and larceny indictment was brought in against him on a charge of entering the garage of Dr. F. E. Thompson on the night of Dec. 16, 1930.

ASK VENUE CHANGE FOR CRESTLINE MEN

Attorneys for Pair Charged with Killing of Sheriff File Motion.

By The Associated Press.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 23—Motion for a change of venue for Walter and Blanton Ralls, Negroes, charged with the first degree murder of Sheriff George Davenport, was filed today by Louis Krieder, Filmer Lutz, and Arden Wisman, attorneys for the pair.

The change was asked on the ground that, because of the widespread discussion of the shooting, a fair trial could not be obtained in Crawford county. This opinion was expressed in affidavits of 50 Bucyrus, Crestline and Galion business men, which accompanied the motion.

Judge Clarence U. Ahl set Feb 26 for hearing the motion. Should it be granted, the trial would be held at Tiffin, Norwalk, Marion Mansfield, Upper Sandusky, or Mt Gilead, the law providing that it be held in a county adjoining the scene of the crime.

MORROW CAGE TEAMS DRAW FOR PLACES

High School Squads Prepare for Tourney Friday, Saturday.

Special to The Star.

MT GILEAD Feb 23—Representatives of the 10 high school basketball teams entered in the county tournament to be held Friday and Saturday met at the office of County Superintendent H O Hanna Saturday and drew for opponents in the first round.

Iberia and Marengo will open the tournament Friday at 1 p m on the Mt Gilead High school gym floor. Cardington and Chesterville will meet in the second game.

In the second round Mt. Gilead will meet Fulton afternoon and Bloominggrove will play Johnsville. Continuing the second round Friday night at 8 p m Sparta will meet Edison. In the second and last game at Mt. Gilead Friday at 9 p. m. the winner of the Iberia-Marengo game and the winner of the Cardington-Chesterville game will play. This is the last of the preliminary games.

The semi-finals will be played at the Cardington High school gym starting with the winner of the Mt. Gilead-Fulton game meeting either Iberia, Marengo, Cardington, or Chesterville. Cardington is favored to emerge from the other games to the semi-final round and is expected to meet Mt. Gilead, slated to win from Fulton. This game will be played Saturday at 2 p. m.

Two added attractions will precede the finals Saturday night at Cardington. At 6:45 p. m. the foul shooting contests for both boys and girls will be staged and at 8 p. m. the Mt. Gilead girls, the county champions will meet the Marengo girls who finished second in the championship race.

The finals will be played Saturday at 9 p. m. Team records indicate that Mt. Gilead, Cardington or Chesterville in the order named have the best chance of fighting it out with Johnsville in the last game. Johnsville is favored to go into the finals over Sparta, Edison, or Bloominggrove the teams they will oppose in the preliminaries and the semi finals.

NEW OIL, GAS WELL IS SHOT

Producer Brought in by Eastern Corporation on Kritzler Farm.

Special to The Star.

KENTON, Feb 23—A heavy oil and gas producing well, one of the largest in the western county oil and gas fields, was "shot" Friday on the A. W. Kritzler farm in Cessna township, by the Appalachian Gas Corp. of New York.

The eastern concern just recently procured the well and other Hardin county properties from the Kenrow Co. of Delaware.

Several hours after the well was shot there was a strong gas pressure and oil shot for several feet into the air preventing bailing out of the hole at a depth of 1408 feet.

The latest producer is located 70 rods west of the producing wells on the Grant Geiger farm at the intersection of the Rangeline road and the Traeger pike.

D. A. R. Chapter Dinner at Hotel Celebrates Birthday Anniversary of Washington

SPRING flowers arranged a charming patriotic color note in the decorations for the Washington's birthday luncheon given by Captain William Hendricks chapter, D. A. R, Saturday in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Covers were placed for eight at the regents' table which was centered with red and white popples and blue hyacinths and lighted with 13 candles tied with red, white and blue tulle. The same colors were carried out with similar flowers which adorned each of the four tables at which covers were laid for 12 members and guests.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. S. L. Locke, regent of Captain William Hendricks chapter. A delightful musical program was presented by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford and Mrs. Harold K. Mouser. Short talks were given by Mrs. Eugene Stewart, regent of the Bucyrus chapter, Mrs. Albert Cox, regent of the Galion chapter, Mrs. Mary Sears, regent of the Upper Sandusky chapter and Mrs. Earl B. Padgett of Galion, state chairman of the D. A. R. magazine, and Mrs. Rodney B. Hume entertained with a reading.

Mrs. Rutherford sang three of Mrs. Mouser's compositions, "Hail Ohio," "Your Step Is a Light Step," and "The Open Door," the words of the latter being written by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. The accompaniments were played by Mrs. Mouser who also entertained with a group of musical numbers Mrs. Hume's selection was "She Who Will Not When She May."

Guests included Mrs. Eugene Stewart, Mrs. L. M. Davis, Mrs. J. C. Lichtenwalter, Mrs. Fred McKnight, Mrs. William Buchanan, Mrs. W. A. Blicke, Miss Bess Johnston, Mrs. Edward Myers, Mrs. C. B. Sharer and Mrs. P. H. Ryder of Bucyrus, Mrs. Mary Sears, Mrs. Flo H. Strong, Mrs. Catherine Propst Miss Fanny Day and Mrs. I. Miller of Upper Sandusky, Mrs. Albert Cox and Mrs. Earl B. Padgett of Galion, Mrs. Charles E. Anderson, Mrs. T. A. Cooper, Mrs. J. C. Wylie, Mrs. J. E. Crawmer, Miss Mabel Wheatley, Miss Winona Hughes, Mrs. D. W. Brickley, Mrs. Hayes Thompson of Marion, Dr. Dessie Thompson of Columbus and Mrs. Bertha Hervey of Jamestown, N. Y.

Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This.

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to Henley & Cooper or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

Too Frequent Tinting Drys Scalp Beauty Authority Says

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

RECENTLY we referred to the slight dry hair condition which frequently makes its appearance after the continued use of rinses. I've since discovered that these rinses are very apt to make the hair quite dry unless this condition is anticipated and guarded against. Therefore, I think a little additional information on the subject is advisable.

Chemically speaking, most prepared rinses are harmless to the actual structure of the hair unless used excessively without preventive treatment. But used, week after week, without precautionary steps one suddenly discovers that a harsh, dry condition arrives most unexpectedly. Also, that ordinary pre-rinse treatment doesn't solve the problem.

Some months ago I went in for reddish lights in the locks on a consistent basis, meaning that instead of having a rinse only on special occasions, I had one each week. Results were most satisfactory until a few weeks ago. At that time I seemed to have difficulty keeping a wave in my hair. The finger wave stayed in beautifully for a day or so then, presto, it was gone. This in spite of a new, successful permanent.

My hairdresser and I then decided to alternate the color rinses with one of vinegar water. Vinegar water brings out the lights in the hair, you know, but not so prominently as an actual tinting does.

A Test

We tried that for several weeks but the dry condition failed to respond, getting a little more noticeable as the days passed. Finally, I permitted ten days to elapse before another rinse. Those few additional days gave the oil ducts of the scalp a fair chance to work and the texture of my hair soon responded.

The dry condition came about despite the fact that I have a special oil treatment before each shampoo. It isn't the olive oil shampoo but a newer one which is being used in most beauty salons during the past few months.

The hairdresser and I once again put our heads together to solve the problem which had become acute.

A Successful Treatment

Equal parts of castor oil and olive oil were heated and massaged into my scalp and that which was left was poured over the ends of the hair. We bound a towel about my head and let the oil remain for two hours, then rinsed it out with very hot water. A final cleansing was needed as we used a mild soap shampoo. My hair looked better and felt beter than it had for a month. The wave stayed in nicely for its allotted time.

Before going for my next shampoo and wave set, however, I poured a liberal amount of olive oil over my hair the night before. Massaged it into the scalp thoroughly and then bound a bath towel about my head and let it remain on until morning. Then I shampooed my hair and hied myself to my hairdresser.

I'm not having any more color rinses for a few weeks until my hair regains its normal texture, which it is doing rapidly. And, when I do return to their use I'm going to follow the plan of saturating my hair with olive oil the night before. I'm quite sure this will prevent my hair from becoming so dry again.

Those of you who are using prepared rinses to brighten your hair will do well to take this precautionary olive oil treatment the night before shampooing for it this plan I'm quite sure you will avoid undue dryness. If you don't you may have the same trouble I did unless an exceptionally oily condition exists.

The normal hair condition, however, reacts as outlined in my case.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Plans Made by Church

ARRANGEMENTS are being made for the annual mother-daughter banquet to be held March 17 in the dining room at Central Christian church.

Announcement of the banquet was made Sunday by L. R. Sager, superintendent of the Sunday school. Mrs. Frank Fairchild was named general chairman assisted by Mrs. Amy Dripps, Mrs. Ed. Unger and Mrs. Charles Swisher.

Mrs. M. L. Buckley, Mrs. W. P. Cass, Mrs. E. Weimer, Mrs. Earl Harrod and Mrs. Ollie Schneider were named to serve on the reception committee and Mrs. Claude Geisler, Mrs. Frank Harrold and Mrs. Frank Drake the refreshment committee. The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

During the Sunday school hour announcement was made of the meeting of the Teachers' Training class Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at which time the study of the Book of Revelations will be taken up under the direction of Rev. H. R. Allegood. It was voted to cooperate with the ministerial association and other churches of the city in the "Go to Church" campaign which will open March 1 and continue until Easter.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

BY HERBERT ADAMS

(Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

CHAPTER 23
Clearing Mystery

THEY all leaned forward as Green's lips tried to frame his ... His eyes opened for a moment and there was profuse perspiration on his forehead. Certainly he wanted to say something, but no more could be added to that ... which seemed the final word ... the Querdling mystery? He muttered something, disjointed and unintelligible, and then the stupor returned.

Dr. Netherton got Richmond on the phone and it was decided to take Green to Querdling Hospital, another of her benefactions, where the doctors could be in charge. Mr. Green became a passenger in the big car he had so often driven. Before Constable Roscoe got in the car he slipped upstairs and took the confession and the glass, with the remaining contents. "We shall want these," he explained.

Jimmie saw him go, but lingered a moment before returning to the house. He stopped to console poor Janet Raynes, crying bitterly over the news she had heard. Green had come in for supper and that was the last she had seen of him. As he last spoke Evelyn entered from the garden and told Jimmie that Major Gresham and Lionel had just left, asking her to say goodnight.

It was natural that public interest in the strange case rose anew when the press reported the chauffeur's confession and attempted suicide. The picture of Ted Green with doctors fighting to save his life and policemen at the door to see that his life was forfeited if the doctors succeeded appealed to the dramatic sense of the nation.

There was mystery as to the poison used, but doctors at the hospital, besieged by eager reporters, refused to give information. It was reported that the patient sometimes tried to speak, but nothing coherent resulted. For three days the battle continued, while locally the feeling was one of relief. Green was not popular among the villagers, who regarded him as standoffish, and they were glad to have the mystery cleared.

Then came the news that Joe Allen, the discharged gardener, had admitted writing the first four letters threatening Miss Querdling. He had accepted a temporary job with a gentleman near Sheffield, and when Green's confession was reported, he told his employer that he had written the leters, not meaning any harm, to frighten Miss Querdling for her injustice. After he stopped writing, the letters continued and that had frightened him into leaving the vicinity. His employer heard his story and had him relate it to the police, who gave him a severe reprimand but took no further steps. In official circles the question was asked, if Joe wrote the first letters, who wrote the rest? Ted Green's confession did not mention them. If he recovered, he could at least clear up that point.

At the Wade home the matter was debated as keenly as anywhere else, but it seemed it would end Jimmie's visit. Donald had asked, now that the mystery was solved, if he planned returning to London.

"You must not turn me out tonight," laughed Jimmie. "I wrote a fellow in London and expect his reply tomorrow or next day. Besides, I'd like to see how Green gets on. He might regain consciousness long enough to give more information."

While they were talking about the case, the telephone bell rang. It was Evelyn at Merrow Craig.

"We've found the will," she said excitedly. "Janet and I together, in Aunt Annabelle's work table where we'd looked before. It had got stuck in the top."

At the bottom of this relic of Miss Querdling's youth she explained, was a sliding well, crammed full of odds and ends. "She must have put the will in the top so that it pressed above the grooves it slides on and remained hidden when we pulled out the well."

Nancy was at the phone, but finally Donald grabbed the receiver and heard the news repeating it to Jimmie and, at his suggestion, asking if the will was signed.

"No. It's in the envelope, exactly as she got it, I suppose. I've wired Mr. Morgan." Then she added, "Has Mr. Haswell heard how Green is today? Poor fellow, one can hardly hope he'll get better."

Jimmie took the phone and told her that Green's condition was practically unchanged when he inquired at the hospital. "Congratulations about the will. Splendid for all of you—all that money, no law suits and no marriage bar."

"I'd hardly thought about it like that yet," Evelyn said. "I am only so glad to have no more mysteries."

Green's confession had brought about unforeseen results, but failed to effect one that might have been expected. Jimmie met Audrey Winford, who told him that she had gone to Richmond and explained about Captain Dick Stirling's car. The superintendent had been furious at Stirling for keeping the matter secret.

"What about yourself and Bill—everything straight and happy?" Jimmie inquired.

"Things have not changed," she said. "I have not spoken to him about anything. Perhaps he is not sure it is all cleared up. I think I must wait for him."

Jimmie understood. Bill had broken the engagement and should take the first step to renew it. What was he waiting for? Jimmie saw again in his mind that scene under the trees when Marjorie was embraced by her lover. Should he tell? Better not. Things must develop in their own way.

It was two days later that Jimmie received the letter for which he had told Donald he was waiting. The same post brought another communication which he had not expected. He read it very carefully and then, without referring to its contents, he informed Nancy that he could not play golf with her that morning as proposed, as he had to see Superintendent Richmond.

AID GROUP MEETS

Grand Prairie Women's Society Holds All-Day Session.

Members of the Grand Prairie Ladies' Aid society met for an all-day meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Elery Brewer of the Upper Sandusky road. Twenty-six members and guests enjoyed a basket dinner at the noon hour and later a program in keeping with the World Day of Prayer, was presented.

A song, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," and devotionals by Mrs. Charles Riley, opened the program. "Prayer Line" was the subject presented by Mrs. W. A. Stewart and Mrs. Elmer Myers gave a reading, "Christ Always Leads." Songs by the members interspersed the program and readings, "No Time," by Mrs. D. W. Hinamon and "The Reward of Prayer," by Mrs. Harry Paden and a vocal duet by Mrs. A. W. Stewart and Mrs. Harry Nelson completed the program. The service closed with a chain prayer, and a song.

Arrangements were made for an all-day meeting March 4 with Mrs. D. W. Hinamon of the Bucyrus road.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

BRIGHT and hammy yesterday which was Sunday. Sunday is almost always bright and hammy. If I was making the weather I would make the Saturdays bright and hammy and let the Sundays take care of themselves. There are lots of boys and girls that don't want any excuse to stay in the house and not go out to play, and it is full of grown-ups who would like a good excuse to not go to church. When I said that at the breakfast table where I was freezing my face after letting Jubilee down and squeezing the milk out of the cow, my father said I had it all wrong. He said grown-ups liked sunshiny Sundays so they could go galumphing over the hills in their automobiles, and when it rained on Sunday they didn't have any place to go except to church. My grandfather said that Chines who are always at war won't fight when it rains. So now I will know every time it rains that the soldiers in China are not fighting, so I will have to try to be glad it isn't raining.

My grandfather said that all of the nice weather is a bluff and that March is getting ready to come in like a lion, and Feeble who was there asted him how a lion came in, and he said it came in roaring and growling and pumping on everybody and tearing their clothes half off, and she said "Like this?" and she growled and roared and ran around the table grabbing at everyone and pulling at their clothes, and when she got to my ant her fingers got caught in the neck of her waist and tore it half off, and then she grabbed the back of my chair and gave it a yank so that just when I was falling over backwards and my ant had jumped up to go for her my ant fell all over me, and I grabbed for something to hang onto and grabbed the tablecloth, and Feeble gave one look and went out of the room and out of the kitchen door so fast she almost tore it off, and the hands in the yard thought there was a fire. My ant was mad, and my father looked disgusted, and grandfather was laughing, and mother looked [illegible] don't think my mother happens so it happens.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Leaves for the City to Meet the Harrison Boys.

I LOOKED at Dicky quizzically as he told me that he was well used to "blowing second saxophone to everybody else" where I was concerned and he had the grace to flush, but he stood his ground obstinately.

"I mean it, without an 'and' or a 'but'," he said as he went through his pockets to see if he had everything which he always carries on a journey. Then he chanted his invariable litany before starting for the door one which he devised long ago when his faulty memory used to provide him with many embarrassing moments.

"Money, watch, keys, handkerchiefs, motor licenses, cigarettes, matches."

"Hug, kiss," I smiled quoting Junior who always supplements his father's list with one of his own devising.

He caught me to him tenderly and filled that quota most satisfactorily. Then he tried to scowl at me, but failed.

Dickly Spoiled

"I ought to go away without kissing you at all," he grumbled. "Who am I in your scheme of life? Simply a fifth wheel whose revolutions may be considered when you've seen to the baby and Junior and Roderick and the rest of the house and now I suppose Hank and Bill. But I'm the he-Griselda of this generation. The more you kick me around the meeker I get. You'll probably see me crawling back on my tummy with red ribbons around my neck held by Hank and Bill."

"Well, more probably see you handcuffed to a six-foot traffic cop," Lillian drawled. She had come into the dining room in time to hear his last absurdity, and I was thankful for her comment as I was leaning against the wall helpless with laughter. "Get along with you; do. I've a lot of things to ask Madge."

"What did I tell you?" Dicky spread his hands expressively as he dashed for the car which Jim had ready for him at the steps. "Don't forget to telephone me what time you'll be here for dinner," I called after him, and his "okeh" floated back to us with the noise of the starting motor.

"Say you two to one he doesn't telephone," Lillian said with a grin as the hum of the motor faded away down the road.

"I won't take you." I returned with a rueful smile born of past experiences with Dicky. "But sometimes he remembers, and this may be one of the times."

"You're the world's champion optimist," she gibed. "Have you breakfasted?"

"Partly with Dicky, but I'll have another cup of coffee with you."

"I counted on that," she said. "I thought I'd catch you alone about now. Harry and your father breakfasted nearly an hour ago and Roderick and Junior are still asleep. I trust Katherine has a tray in her room because of the baby, and your mother-in-law has one on account of herself. Mary and Marion won't rouse until three this afternoon unless somebody routs them out. What wouldn't I give to be able to sleep like that, again."

"Lillian," A sudden fear struck me. "You aren't getting that old trouble, that insomnia again?"

"Say an insom," she told me so easily, so naturally, that my fears fled. "It's simply old age creeping on. You know almost all old people are early and need little sleep. Witness your doughty mother-in-law. Better watch your step, old dear," she grinned maliciously at me. "Are you waking early these mornings?"

"I did this morning," I said laughing. "I had Dicky on my mind."

"Better get him off it," she advised lightly. "He doesn't need you today, and everybody else does."

"That's what he says I think." I replied ungardedly, and she stared at me for an instant, then her face hardened.

"He's getting spoiled again," she said with the freedom which her long and intimate association with both Dicky and me gives her. "Of course you couldn't help giving up your job with Phil Veritzen's organization when you knew the baby was coming and it was natural for you to give Dicky a lot of attention while he was doing the royal devoted as only he can, and which he's kept up ever since he's known about the baby. But with Junior and Roderick and all the rest of us away, he's grown to depend upon your always being round when he wanted you. And with Katherine on hand to take the care of the baby for you, you've been able to give him first call on your time and heart. Now, that you're slipping back into the old ways, with everybody looking to you for everything he's getting sulky like the darling overgrown boy he is. But he'll have to have a smacking if he keeps it up, or life will become utterly unbearable for you. I've seen the Dicky-bird going through his exercises many times you know, and while I suppose I'm the World's Most Obnoxious Butter-In, yet I can't help giving you a tip of what you're going to be up against."

A Twist of Fate

"You know very well that you can say to me what I wouldn't say out loud to myself," I said reproachfully—and truthfully, for Lillian, years before I knew her, earned the right by a strange and bitter sacrifice to say whatever she pleased to Dicky or about him for the rest of his life and here it was by an ironic twist of Fate that because of a simple humane action upon Lillian's part her husband possessed of a devil if ever a man was, should have been able to give her the alternative of ruining Dicky's name and career, or of giving up her baby daughter. The marks on that experience would never leave Lillian, though for years Marion had been hers irrevocably. But Dicky ever since had paid her fealty in which I had joined once I found out the woman beneath the mask she had worn when I first knew her.

"Well, then I'll say something startling," she said. "You ought to go back to your work."

hands whilst I was feeding my face, and she hooked one of his hands out with her foot and he skun his face on the barn shovel and hurt his ear, and he chaseted her all the way to school. He caught her at the gate to the school, and then he was sorry he could run so fast.
